CINCINNATI, May 3.—There were moments during the brief career of the Convention when it seemed to have symptoms of protracted and vigorous life, but the charlatans who brought it into existence attended it with too great solicitude, and it has died on their hands. The history of its last few hours is strikingly illustrative of the fact that a political movement matured by fraudulent practices cannot hope to survive. Since Sunday the Convention has been literally stolen by political knaves. First came the corrupt cohorts of Judge Davis, headed by John Defrees, who manufactured a tremendous outside pressure that would have resulted on Monday in the nomination of Davis. The moral sense of the Convention was all the time with Adams, as was all its political honesty and all its sincerity and intelligence. In these early stages of the struggle Davis was pushed by Messrs. Ward H. Lamon, David Dudley Field, Leonard Swett, Henry S. Cake and Gen. Gridley, of Bloomington, Ill., who was once arrested for frauds upon the Revenue. On the other hand, the advocates of Adams were Edward Atkinson, David A. Wells, Horace White, Samuel Bowles, Stanley Matthews, Judge Hoadley and many others, who possessed all the sincerity and honesty of the concern. On Thursday night the Philistines sneaked into their camp and out-manœuvred them. Late at night it was rumored that Frank Blair and Montgomery Blair had reached the city, and soon afterward it was ascertained that Gratz Brown was in their company. Such a combination could mean nothing but mischief, and the Adams forces were instantly on the alert, but did not succeed in learning the moves of the conspirators until it was too late to counteract them.

THE GAME REVEALED.

About 2 o'clock it was discovered that these men had been in consultation, in Covington and this city, with the corruptionists in the Convention, and that it had been determined that Brown should withdraw in favor of Greeley, and take the second place on the ticket. This made the combination a powerful one, and the Adams men, who believed its success would be the death of the movement, yet were aware of the danger of its being forced through the Convention. As shameless a political bargain as was ever made naturally enticed to its support such patriots as Gen. Cochrane, Waldo Hutchins, Alex. McClure, Gratz Brown, and some conscienceless political adventurers from the South, and the sort of influences which would be used by such men as these was naturally dreaded.

IN THE CONVENTION.

When the Convention assembled there was no signs of the conspiracy for some time in the proceedings, but its existence was generally known, and bitter comments upon it could be heard in every quarter by the friends of Adams, Davis and Trumbull. Having got safely through the platform, with manifestations of intense delight that a transparent cheat on the tariff question had been devised, the Convention proceeded to ballot for a candidate for President. The roll of States was called, and yet there was no sign of the conspiracy. But no sooner had the result been announced, showing that Adams had developed the full strength claimed for him in the special dispatches of the Times, than the bargain was sprung upon the Convention. Gratz Brown for the first time appeared on the floor. Raising his voice, it was recognized by his friend in the chair, and he then went, without invitation, to the platform, where his appearance did not evoke any considerable enthusiasm. He then proceeded to make that remarkable speech declaring for Greeley, when the explosion instantly came. Missouri changed her vote from Brown to Trumbull, and the Chairman of the Kentucky delegation, Hon. C. M. Clay, arose and cast the five votes given Brown for his "old and honored friend, Horace Greeley," whereupon a hot blood in the delegation claimed that this was a vote of the Chairman, and that the delegation had not been consulted. Whereupon Cassius appealed to his delegation for the vote, and remarked that he had lived too long in public life to notice the insinuations of the gentleman reflecting on his honor. Cassius evidently meant business, both in his voice and the look which flashed from his eyes, and his opponent sank down into the oblivion of the stunned mass. There were several other changes of votes, and then Missouri asked leave to retire for consultation. There was considerable commotion in the delegation, which happened to be seated immediately under your correspondent, who was thereby enabled to witness the sudden disintegration and hear the violent expletives with which several members greeted the exposure of the conspiracy. Finally the delegation got out of the hall without any actual physical collision, and then the second phase of the bargain appeared. Alex. McClure withdrew the name of Gov. Curtin, and asked leave for Pennsylvania to retire for consultation, by which he meant that he might have an opportunity to whet that knife which on the previous evening he had threatened to put into the free-traders.

SCHURZ OPPOSES THE BARGAIN.

The session of the Missourians was stormy in the extreme. Senator Schurz relinquished the chair to Mr. Julian, and, appearing before the delegation of his State, proceeded to make a brief but vigorous speech against the consummation of the bargain by the nomination of Greeley. He said that he yielded to no one in admiration of the high character of Mr. Greeley, or in appreciation of his great services to humanity, but, unfortunately, Mr. Greeley had idiosyncracies which made him the weakest candidate the Convention could select. He had been one of the most prominent and persistent advocates of temperance by legislation, so that it was idle to suppose that the German vote would be cast for him. Besides it was indispensable to the success of the movement that the candidate should carry Ohio. It was nonsense to say that Mr. Greeley could do that.

SOLD, BUT NOT DELIVERED.

These arguments of Schurz, with the disgust of the Missourians at their transfer like sheep, caused both Brown and his bargain to be repudiated. Presently the delegates returned, and the balloting again began. The success of the conspiracy was even then far from assured. Alabama and Arkansas, two of the rotten borough States, which had before divided, led off solid for Greeley. California gave him half, and Georgia all, while before she had none for him. But there were no other breaks of consequence before Missouri was called, and that State gave Greeley only ten, while she gave Trumbull sixteen and Adams four. The announcement of the vote by Gen. McNeil, the Chairman, being instantly followed by one of the delegates shouting, "We've been sold, but not delivered." When it came to Pennsylvania it was found that McClure had been equally unable to fulfill his contract, as that State had only 18 for Greeley, with 26 for Adams and 11 for Trumbull. When the result of the ballot showed Adams 243, Greeley 245, Trumbull 148 and Davis 75, the conspiracy seemed a failure. The Adams men became radiant, and for a time delighted in the delusion that the days of political purity had come again, and that their candidate for whom no questionable means had been used, was to triumph by the mere force of merit over the chicancery of professional politicians.

PROGRESS OF THE FIGHT.

At the conclusion of the ballot there was unusual uproar caused by the meeting of delegations. The emissaries of the corrupt Greeley-Brown ring were at work, and the Adams men became uneasy, but the roll-call of the third ballot soon began, and being completed showed Adams 264, Greeley 258, Trumbull 146, and Davis 44. Virtue was still triumphant against intrigue. Adams on the fourth ballot had 279, Greeley 251, Trumbull 141. Not only had Adams gained, but Greeley had actually lost, and it was generally supposed that the Trumbull vote, which was the balance of power, would, when it left him, go to Adams and nominate him. Those who were ignorant of the depth of iniquity into which the Greeley managers had descended, supposed the nomination of Adams certain, and telegrams to that effect were flashed over the country.

THE BREAK.

On the next ballot the break began, Trumbuel going down to 91, Adams rising to 309, and Greeley to 256. The latter had gained only 5, but Adams had gained 30, and there was no longer any doubt in many mind, but that Adams would be nominated on the next ballot. The Trumbull men were going over to him. It was thought there was no longer any danger of a stampede to Greeley, and there was a general conclusion that the Blairs, Gratz Brown, Cochrane, Hutchins, McClure and the other intriguers had gained nothing by their labors. But they had not been given credit for the astuteness they possessed, for all this time they had been merely playing with the victim they were now prepared to crush. At this juncture, the Illinois delegation asked leave to retire, and in the confusion following their exit, the calling of the sixth ballot begun. Alabama and Arkansas voted solid for Greeley. Georgia next went solid the same way, and then the critical moment had come. John Cochrane jumped to his feet and set up a yell, in which all the plotters joined. It was minutes before the roll could be called further, Indiana followed almost solid for Greeley, and the yells were renewed with more volume and intensity than before. It was evident that Greeley was to be shouted down the throat of the Convention, and in vain Schurz pounded for order. There was no order in the crowd of political tricksters below him, and as gains for Greeley were announced in Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Mississippi, Louisiana, Missouri, which finally voted Greeley, with Adams 10 and Trumbull 2, it was evident that the Tribune philosopher was stamped into the nomination. But McClure had to make a proper showing, and Pennsylvania, before the changes commenced stood Adams 32, Greeley 18.

A SHOUTING MOB.

At the close of the call the Convention degenerated into a mob of yelling madmen. Private tallies had shown that the plot had succeeded, and everywhere chairmen of delegations were on their feet demanding to change the vote of their States, which was done, and finally the vote was announced—Greeley 482, and Adams 187, and Horace Greeley had been nominated as the Reform candidate for President. The scene at this point was simply indescribable, a motion for a recess had been made but had been defeated—yet there was an actual recess, because nothing could be done pending the return of the Illinois delegation. The fact that Greeley was actually nominated, as the figures stood, seemed incomprehensible, and, to many, impossible. The Convention awoke to the situation by degrees, as if stung by the shock of an awful calamity. On the New-York side there was uproarious confusion, and the red neck-ties of Tammany Republicans were actively at work trying to induce delegates to change their votes.

DISMAY.

But on all other hands the relization of the situation settled like a pall. The Southern States, which had been scattering their votes on Chase, Brown and Trumbull, hurried to change them to the winning man, and the announcements were made amid loud cheers and storms of hisses from the floor and the galleries. Cries of "shame" and yells of delight were mingled in the common discord. Every man's face was a study. Hundreds of delegates stamped their feet and swore. Judge Hoadley, of the Ohio delegation, shook with rage. Stanley Matthews swelled until it seemed as if he would burst. The pig-iron arrow which he shot at McClure last night had been turned, and now pierced his own heart. The faces of the "independent journalists" which had just been all aglow with joyful hope at the splendid vote of Adams, now grew black under the overspreading clouds of disappointment and disgust. The face of Schurz was a fresh study for the facile pencil of Nast. The audience seemed to become enraged and delighted by turns. Hats flew wildly and anathemas were hurled at the heads of the bargainers.

ANNOUNCING THE RESULT.

It was a long time before the ballot was announced, and when it was it was mere guess work, for the changes had been accomplished in such a turmoil that the secretaries were unable to correct them, but it came at last in a voice trembling with visible emotion. Senator Schurz said: "The result of the sixth ballot is as follows: Whole number of votes cast, 714; necessary to a choice, 358, of which Charles Francis Adams has 187, and Horace Greeley has 482. You have, therefore, nominated Horace Greeley as your candidate for President." Both the enthusiasm of the New-Yorkers and the rage of the Adams men had nearly spent its physical force by this time, and the announcement served rather to quiet than to promote the disorder.

NO UNANIMITY EVEN YET.

In a moment more, however, three or four motions to make the nomination unanimous were launched at the Chair, but were met by stentorian cries of "No, no no," from all parts of the floor. The motion being put, it was met with wild cries of "Aye" from the Greeley men, mingled with scorning hisses, and when the negative was called for an angry shout of "No, no," went up from scores of the benches. But the deed was done, and a recess of ten minutes followed, against the protestations of the Greeley champions, who wanted to rush the Gratz Brown bargain right through.

A CHANGE.

During the intermission the scene was changed from the appalling to the ludicrous. The men at first stunned at the result began to realize the length and breadth of the farce, and then to laugh immoderately. Among the journalists the comments were various, as they telegraphed reserved comments or instructions to their papers. Samuel Bowles was asked what he was going to do about it, and replied that he was "going to think about it." Halstead, the Murat of "independent journalists" swore with an emphatic oath, while Matterson, of the Louisville Courier-Journal, surveyed his wrecked hopes with a sickening sensation, while Bromley, of the Hartford Post, at once bought a ticket for the Mammouth Cave, remarking, with that characteristic severity which never permits him to spoil a joke, even at the expense of his friends, that having seen one "mammoth cave," he desired to see the other in Kentucky. During this brief recess the complexion of the audience changed almost entirely. Scores of delegates left in utter disgust and rage, and the galleries emptied with great rapidity. The spirit of the Convention was broken and the interest was gone. The whole affair had collapsed like a bubble, and it required quite an effort to nerve the body up to the exertion of completing the remainder of the bargain by the renomination of Gratz Brown for Vice-President. The roll-call began, and amid the cheers of the Brown body-guard from St. Louis, and Greeley's strikers from New-York, and Greeley's States wheeled into line for Brown. The Adams men made a frantic effort to stem the tide of disaster, and, when Connecticut was reached, she cast ten votes for George W. Julian, and only one for Brown. Illinois, Indiana and Massachusetts followed suit, and it seemed for a moment as if that degree of respectability which pertains to Mr. Julian might be saved to the ticket, but it was only for a moment. Other States which might have nominated Julian, and thus restore a partial spirit to the despondent mass, fritted away, the vote on Trumbull and Cox and Walker and even Tipton and Scovell received eight and twelve votes respectively.

So that on the total result Brown was nearly ahead of all competitors, thus: Brown, 237; Trumbull, 156; Julian, 134½; Walker, 84½; Clay, 44; Cox, 25; Scovel, 12; Pipton, 8. At this point Gov. Koerner, of Illinois, withdrew Trumbull's name, saying that he had absolutely declined to take that nomination, and the name of Gov. Cox was also withdrawn by his authority. At this point, also, the announcement was made that the Ohio delegation would withdraw from the Convention for consultation at College Hall. The second ballot was then taken and the bargain no longer encountered any resistance. It went all one way, the farce being kept up by those who remained casting the full vote of the delegation, many members of which had departed until the result was announced: Brown, 435; Julian, 175; Walker, 75; Palmer, 8; Tipton, 3.

This was the sickening end.

THE ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. Schurz announced the result and reminded the delegates that they must select from each State a representative on the National Committee. But there was no heart for such work as this, and it wat quickly disposed of. Then Mr. Schurz nerved himself up to say a few parting words, and his heart and his eloquence failed him, and with a brief and ironical adjuration to elect the ticket, he adjourned what was left of the Convention sine die.

THE PARTY OF "BRAINS AND CONVICTIONS."

But of all the men who are literally "hoist with their own petard," the party of brains and convictions, the Free-trade Revenue Reformers, are the worst sold set that can be found. These men were very properly the leaders of the Convention. They embodied all of principle and convictions there was in it. They were honest men, and they came here first for principle and second for success. They sought to combine the two, according to their notions, in Adams as a candidate and the Missouri resolution as a platform; but they were not skilled in the ways of the politicians, and when they undertook to temporize and make concessions for the sake of success, they planned their own defeat. They insisted that they were not yielding anything, yet yielded the very key of the position. The New-Yorkers, under the telegraphic advice of Greeley, dictated step by step the terms of the tariff resolution, until what was asserted to be a square principle at the outset was transformed into a meaningless, ambiguous and absurd proposition. Having thus for the sake of conciliation surrendered their principles, the defeat of their candidate followed naturally at the hands of the bargainers, who knew that Adams was no sort of man for their purposes. Probably no men in the Convention are in a worse position than they are to-day, and when one of them was asked what was his purpose for the Summer campaign, he despondently replied that he thought he should go a fishing. THE FINAL ACT.

Detailed Report of the Third and Last Day's Proceedings of the Convention.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 3.—The Convention was called to order at 10:10 o'clock. The reading of the journal was dispensed with.

The Chair stated that the statement in a morning paper pretending to give a dispatch from him (Schurz) to a candidate was utterly untrue.

Mr. Gilmore, of Missouri, offered a resolution that when the Convention reaches the point of balloting for candidates, there shall be no formal presentation of candidates, but that the Convention proceed to vote.

Mr. Dexter, of Illinois, sustained the proposition. He said he wanted to proceed to business, and avoid mere personal eulogies.

The resolution was carried.

THE ADDRESS AND RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. Horace White, from the Committee on Platform, reported a set of resolutions which had been unanimously adopted by the Committee.

Address of the Committee on Resolutions.

The Administration now in power has rendered itself guilty of wanton disregard of the laws of the land and of powers not granted by the Constitution. It has acted as if the laws had binding force only for those who are governed, and not for those who govern. It has thus struck a blow at the fundamental principles of constitutional government, and the liberties of the citizen. The President of the United States has openly used the powers and opportunities of his high office for the promotion of personal ends. He has kept notoriously corrupt and unworthy men in places of power and responsibility to the detriment of the public interest. He has used the public service of the Government as a machinery of partisan and personal influence, and interfered with tyrannical arrogance in the political affairs of States and municipalities. He has rewarded with influential and lucrative offices men who had acquired his favor by valuable presents, thus stimulating demoralization of our political life by his conspicuous example. He has shown himself deplorably unequal to the tasks imposed upon him by the necessities of the country, and culpably careless of the responsibilities of his high office. The partisans of the Administration, assuming to be the Republican Party and controlling its organization, have attempted to justify such wrongs and palliate such abuses, to the end of maintaining partisan ascendancy. They have stood in the way of necessary investigations and indispensable reforms, pretending that no serious fault could be found with the present administration of public affairs, thus seeking to blind the eyes of the people. They have kept alive the passions and resentments of the late civil war to use them for their own advantage. They have resorted to arbitrary measures in direct conflict with the organic law instead of appealing to the better instincts and latent patriotism of the Southern people by restoring to them those rights, the enjoyment of which is indispensable for a successful administration of their local affairs, and would tend to move a patriotic and hopeful national feeling. They have degraded themselves, and the name of their party, once justly entitled to the confidence of the nation, by a base sycophancy to the dispenser of executive power and patronage unworthy of Republican freemen, they have sought to stifle the voice of just criticism, to stifle the moral sense of the people and to subjugate public opinion by tyrannical party discipline. They are striving to maintain themselves in authority for selfish ends by an unscrupulous use of the power which rightfully belongs to the people, and should be employed only in the service of the country. Believing that an organization thus led and controlled can no longer be of service to the best interests of the Republic, we have resolved to make an independent appeal to the sober judgment, conscience and patriotism of the American people.

We, the Liberal Republicans of the United States, in National Convention assembled at Cincinnati, proclaim the following principles as essential to just government:

First—We recognize the equality of all men before the law, and hold that it is the duty of government in its dealings with the people to mete out equal and exact justice to all, of whatever nativity, race, color or persuasion, religious or political.

Second—We pledge ourselves to maintain the union of the States, emancipation and enfranchisement, and to oppose any reopening of the questions settled by the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Constitution.

Third—We demand the immediate and absolute removal of all disabilities imposed on account of the rebellion which was finally subdued seven years ago, believing that universal amnesty will result in complete pacification in all sections of the country.

Fourth—Local self-government with impartial suffrage will guard the rights of all citizens more securely than any centralized power. The public welfare requires the supremacy of the civil over the military authority, and freedom of person under the protection of the habeas corpus. We demand for the individual the largest liberty consistent with public order, for the State self-government, and for the nation a return to the methods of peace and the constitutional limitation of power.

Fifth—The civil service of the Government has become a mere instrument of partisan tyranny and personal ambition, and an object of selfish greed. It is a scandal and reproach upon free institutions, and breeds a demoralization dangerous to the perpetuity of republican government. We therefore regard such thorough reforms of the civil service as one of the most pressing necessities of the hour; that honesty, capacity and fidelity, constitute the only valid claims to public employment; That the offices of the Government cease to be a matter of arbitrary favoritism and patronage, and that public station become again a post of honor. To this end it is imperatively required that no President shall be a candidate for re-election.

Sixth—We demand a system of Federal taxation which shall not unnecessarily interfere with the industry of the people, and which shall provide the means necessary to pay the expenses of the Government economically administered, the pensions, the interest on the public debt, and a moderate reduction annually of the principal thereof; and, recognizing that there are in our midst honest but irreconcilable differences of opinion with regard to the respective systems of protection and free trade, we remit the discussion of the subject to the people in their Congressional districts and to the decision of Congress thereon, wholly free of Executive interference or dictation.

Seventh—The public credit must be sacredly maintained, and we denounce repudiation in every form and guise.

Eighth—A speedy return to specie payment is demanded alike by highest considerations of commercial morality and honest government.

Ninth—We remember with gratitude the heroism and sacrifices of the soldiers and sailors of the Republic, and no act of ours shall ever detract from their justly earned fame or the full reward of their patriotism.

Tenth—We are opposed to all further grants of land to railroads or other corporations. The public domain should be held sacred to actual settlers.

Eleventh—We hold that it is the duty of the Government, in its intercourse with foreign nations, to cultivate the friendship of peace by treating with all on fair and equal terms, regarding it alike dishonorable either to demand what is not right or to submit to what is wrong.

Twelfth—For the promotion and success of these vital principles, and the support of the candidates nominated by this Convention, we invite and cordially welcome the co-operation of all patriotic citizens, without regard to previous affiliations.

(Signed,) HORACE WHITE,
Chairman of Committee on Resolutions.
G. P. THURSTON, Secretary.

The platform was adopted unanimously.

BALLOTING OF CANDIDATES.

The next order of business was stated by the Chair to be the nomination of candidates for the Presidency, without the formal presentation of candidates.

Before the result of the first ballot was announced, Gratz Brown, by unanimous consent, took the stand and thanked his friends for their support of him, but withdrew his name and asked his friends to support Horace Greeley. [Great cheers with many persistent hisses.]

Considerable confusion ensued, various delegations asking to change their votes, contention arising in some of them—notably Kentucky—as to what the changes among themselves really were, after which the Chair announced the following result:

First Ballot.

Whole number of votes....714
Necessary to a choice....358

Adams	203	Greeley	147
Trumbull	110	Brown	95
Davis	92½	Curtin	62
Chase	2½	Sumner	1

Missouri asked leave to retire for consultation. Mr. McClure withdrew Gov. Curtin's name, and asked leave for the Pennsylvania delegation to retire, which request was granted. The proceedings were suspended until the return of the absent delegations.

Second Ballot.

Greeley	245	Adams	243
Trumbull	148	Davis	75
Brown	2	Chase	1

Third Ballot.

Adams	264	Greeley	258
Trumbull	156	Davis	44

Fourth Ballot.

Adams	279	Greeley	251
Trumbull	141	Davis	51

Fifth Ballot.

Adams	309	Greeley	258
Trumbull	91	Davis	30
Chase	24	Chase	2

The announcement of Adams' vote was received with great cheers. The sixth ballot was ordered, amid a scene of great confusion. Missouri asked leave to retire for consultation. After an interval of twenty minutes, the call of the roll was proceeded with.

Sixth Ballot.

Greeley	332	Adams	324
Chase	32	Trumbull	19
Davis	6	Palmer	1

Before the vote was formally announced, Minnesota changed 9 from Trumbull to Greeley. Various States changed their votes. A scene of great confusion and noise followed. Mr. McClure changed Pennsylvania to 50 for Greeley and 6 for Davis. Indiana changed to 27 for Adams. A stampede of changes to Greeley here occurred, and the noise and confusion that followed was very great. Illinois changed solid to Greeley, except one delegate, who insisted that his vote should stand for Trumbull.

The Chair finally announced the whole vote as 714; necessary to a choice, 358. Adams had 187; Greeley 482.

Mr. Casement moved to make the nomination unanimous, but it was declared lost, as there were many nays before the vote was announced.

The Chair then announced that Mr. Greeley was nominated as the candidate for the Presidency by the Convention.

NOMINATING THE VICE-PRESIDENT.

On motion, it was ordered to proceed to the nomination of a Vice-President immediately, and Gratz Brown was nominated on the second ballot. During the balloting Gov. Koerner, of Illinois, stated that he had received a telegram from Mr. Trumbull positively declining to be a candidate for Vice-President under any circumstances. Several States offered their votes to Cassius M. Clay, but he declined to be considered a candidate, advising them to vote for Mr. Brown. Mr. Cox, of Ohio, also declined to be considered a candidate. Gov. Palmer, of Illinois, would not accept a nomination under any circumstances. Mr. Brown's nomination was then made unanimous, and the President and Vice-President of the Convention were appointed a Committee to announce the nominations to the candidates.

After resolutions of thanks to Cincinnati for her hospitality and to the officers of the Convention were adopted, the roll of the States was called for members of the National Executive Committee.

ILL-CONCEALED DISGUST OF SCHURZ.

In response to vehement calls for a speech, Senator Schurz said: My fellow-citizens—This Convention has overwhelmed me with kindness, and I have especially to thank them for the indulgence with which they have borne with me while I was endeavoring, to the best of my ability, to conduct with fairness and impartiality the deliberations of this large, and let us confess, a little unruly, body. [Laughter.] We have now accomplished our work. Our duty it will be now to proclaim to all the land the principles we have embodied in our platform, and go forward and solicit, with all entreaties which our minds and hearts are capable of making, the support of the people of the United States for the candidates we have nominated. I have already done so much speaking in this Convention, and, may be, I may have to do so much during the impending campaign, that you will certainly bear with me if I close my speech in the same manner in which I closed my first—then by seconding the motion to adjourn, and now by declaring the Liberal Republican Convention adjourned sine di.

THE NOMINATION ACCEPTED.

Mr. Greeley Gratefully Acknowledges the Compliment and Says Yes.

CINCINNATI, May 3.—The following telegram from Mr. Greeley was received here after he had been informed of his nomination:

NEW-YORK, May 3, 1872.

Whitelaw Reid: Please tender my grateful acknowledgements to the members of the Convention for the generous confidence they have shown me, and assure them I shall endeavor to deserve it. HORACE GREELEY.

THE RESULT IN WASHINGTON.

A General Laugh—Gen. Butler's Opinion—Mr. Trumbull Modest, or Overpowered by His Feelings—What the Democrats Say.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Today, for the first time this week, the Cincinnati Convention has made impression enough in Washington to attract attention, and for an hour there was some excitement to hear returns of the ballots as they came over the wires. It was evident from the first that Greeley and Brown had been trading. Soon there came rumors of combination between Trumbull and Adams, and when the break on the fifth ballot from Trumbull to Adams was announced there was a general impression that he would win. Doubts, however, were still entertained of that result on the theory that whoever was ahead in the beginning, unless nominated the first time, would be beaten in the end. Gen. Logan put full trust in this theory, to which he remembered no exception. The sixth ballot was awaited with much interest. Returns came slowly, preceded by the simple announcement that Greeley was nominated. An indescribable scene took place in the House when this was announced. During the balloting large and noisy groups of members were discussing the latest news in all parts of the House, and tariff speeches fell unheeded. Democrats acted uneasy for an hour before the final ballot, it being clear from the first that either Adams or Greeley would be the man, and New-Yorkers like Wood, Cox and Potter did not hesitate to say that one would be as hard to swallow as the other. Mr. Schofield was in the chair, and when in response to demands for information, as it appeared in distant parts of the house that information had been received, he announced that Greeley was nominated, a loud and general guffaw broke out all over the floor. "It's a sell;" "Don't believe it," were the first words that came up from the excited throng of Congressmen through their laughter. "Sold out," accompanied by expletives, was the comment of Democrats, and among the Republicans the broad burlesque of the whole thing kept up a diversion which has not yet subsided. Some of the remarks of prominent and demoralized Democrats were amusing. Eldridge, of Wisconsin, said, "It's none of our funeral," and protested that the Democrats had had nothing whatever to do with the thing, never intended to from the first, and never would. Mr. Cox and others openly boasted that it was fixed as they wanted it; that Greeley was put up as a "decoy duck" to draw off Republican votes, and that the regular Democratic candidate was now certain to be elected. Mr. Kelley, meeting Dan Voorhees, said that it was a strange spectacle to see him (Kelley, the protectionist,) opposed to Greeley, and Voorhees, the free-trader, for him. "That is something you will never see," replied Voorhees. A prominent Illinois Republican, who has been reputed as hostile to Grant, said that the result was all that was necessary to give Illinois to Grant. "She went into that Convention with three candidates, and was kicked out," he added in explanation. A prominent Kentucky Democrat upbraided Greeley. He was "the cause of all their woes." Gen. Butler said it was the weakest nomination that could possibly have been made. "Greeley has at last got a nomination," he said, "on the same principle that an auctioneer up in my district accepted the bid of a man who was always bidding one cent, in order to get rid of him."

In the Senate, there were groups of Senators scattered about discussing the news. His emotions or modesty—nobody can tell which—kept Mr. Trumbull outside the Chamber during this time. He had not the fortitude to sit in his seat and feel the gaze of even the few in the galleries. When the brief agony—but still long to him—was over, he came back and smiled with the rest over the ludicrous finale of the performance. It was observed on several sides that he looked very white, and a copy of the Globe, which he attempted to read, seemed to share his emotions, and trembled so that he did not long continue to read. He went over on a sofa, and received sympathy from his colleague. Then he went and canvassed the situation with Mr. Fenton. The Democrats held small caucuses in the corners of the chamber. Mr. Trumbull is credited with saying that when the first wave of laughter subsided he did not know what would become of the ticket. The nomination was a complete surprise. Greeley had not been looked upon as one of the possibilities. He had been patted on the back by the rest of the candidates in order to secure the Tribune. But they none of them considered him seriously in the light of a rival. They are as far as has been heard from here much chagrined. The only unanimity in the reception of the nomination is the ridicule with which it is greeted. The first effect of the news on everybody was to excite laughter, and certainly Washington has never been in more excellent humor than to-night.

The prospects of the political effect of the nomination are discussed considerably. From the Democrats only one voice is heard. They will have their regular National Convention and their own nominees. They profess to believe that Greeley will have sufficient strength to draw off votes in the closer States from the Republican nominee and give them to the Democrats, while Greeley himself is not conceded anywhere to have strength enough to carry a single State for himself. Among the friends of the President there is no desire to have the action of the Cincinnati Convention changed in any particular. They laugh with the rest. Indeed, the city is so much filled with laughter, that sober reflection upon consequences is almost impossible.

FEELING IN THE CITY.

The Nomination Regarded as a Joke by All Except the Democrats, Who Like It.

To say that the citizens of New-York were surprised by the action of the Cincinnati Convention would be but a tame way of expressing their feelings. Indeed, the first thought of the matter was that a telegraphic joke had been practiced on the public by some wag. But when the truth actually was forced home to the minds of the people, New-York might have been said to smile audibly. The guns in the City Hall Park, which, by the way, are said to have been paid for by the Tribune office, seemed to be regarded in their blank cartridge explosions as typical of the harmless result of the Liberal movement. No one could be prevailed upon to consider seriously for a moment Mr. Greeley as a President. The majority of the Democrats, however, who long for Republican disintegration at any cost, were jubilant, and metaphorically patted the nominee on the back. As soon as he made his appearance in Printing-house-square he was surrounded by a large crowd of news-boys and young men, who followed him to the cars. One urchin hung to his coat-tails and said, "Do make us a speech, Mr. Greeley! Hoorar! for the President!" He was requited with a gentle pat on the shoulder, and Mr. Greeley went up to the Union League Club.

FEELING DOWN TOWN.

At the business centres—in Wall-street, at the Stock Exchange, the Gold-room, the Merchants' News-rooms and at the Cotton and Produce Exchanges—the news of the unexpected result of the Cincinnati Convention was received in an entirely different manner from that in which the tidings of Presidential nominations are usually greeted. Men spoke of Greeley's candidature as a huge joke, and some were even irreverent enough to couple the name of the agricultural philosopher of Chappaqua as a Presidential aspirant with that of George Francis Train or Daniel Pratt. With a sad look of appreciation of the gravity of the matter every one seemed to speak of the nomination with a quiet but expressive smile, or with a derisive laugh. The question asked, "What do you think of the nomination of Mr. Greeley?" was met by a questioning smile, as though doubtful of the interrogator's intent to have the matter considered seriously. For once the "interviewer" was baffled; scarcely any one seemed willing to express a serious opinion on the matter.

At the Stock Exchange, where the business in securities was rather brisk, the prices fluctuating very much during the day, the usual hubbub was checked for a time when the news was received, and Greeley's prospects hurriedly discussed. Men wondered how many Democratic votes he would poll; whether the Democrats will nominate Adams to take advantage of his very apparent popularity among many "Liberals;" whether the nomination was made with a view of drawing Democratic votes, ("anything to beat Grant;") and so on, ad libitum. Conjectures were indulged in, not as to whether Greeley would be elected, (that seeming to be deemed not worth consideration,) but as to what was behind the farce.

AT THE UNION LEAGUE CLUB.

Mr. Greeley called at the Union League Club, as usual, last evening, and took his bundle of letters from his box and proceeded into the reading-room to peruse them. At the time there were several members of the Club in the room, engaged in conversation on the nomination at Cincinnati, but on Mr. Greeley's entrance the conversation was hushed, and he was left completely alone. These quarters not seeming very agreeable, Mr. Greeley soon left. Later in the evening the Club-house was crowded with the members, who seemed to regard the nomination as a very good joke. No one except Mr. Greeley's friends for a moment thinks he will run. Among the opinions advanced was that the nomination of Mr. Greeley was unexpected, and, it is believed, will lead to the nomination of a Democratic candidate, which will leave Mr. Greeley without any followers at all. This Club will abide by the nomination of the Philadelphia Convention. One of the members said a Democratic Sachem of Tammany Hall told him that the Democrats would now put in a candidate, as Mr. Greeley does not suit them; but if they did not, he would vote for Grant, and in saying this he thought he might speak for the sensible men of the Democratic Party. But the great question is, "Who is going to furnish the money to canvass Mr. Greeley?" It will cost $1,000,000 to canvass the Union; New-York State alone cannot be canvassed under $150,000, and where is this money to come from? Not from the Democrats, surely. Thanks to the Committee of Seventy, they have not much spare money or "loose cash" about. They are short of money and cannot help, so where is Mr. Greeley to get the "necessary?" Another rumor current during the evening was that Greeley and Brown are sure of the State of Missouri, but they could carry no State without the Democratic indorsement.

THE MANHATTAN CLUB.

Early in the evening, as the members of the Club dropped in to obtain the latest news from the Convention, it was evident that the nominations of Greeley and Brown gave considerable satisfaction. The result of the ballots was discussed in the groups of members which formed in the corridor and parlors, and at times the quiet mirth of the gentlemen enlivened the more serious conversation on the political issue. Two well-known and prominent politicians entered, and shaking hands with those around them, jubilantly cheered for the nominees. "Why, said one of them, "I would rather cast my vote for his satanic majesty than give my voice for the re-election of Ulysses S. Grant. His re-election means the utter rout of the Democratic Party in this country for years. But in the present condition of the Democracy we cannot hope to put forward a prominent man who will carry strength enough to sweep Grant from the field, and it seems that the effect of Greeley's nomination will be to draw from the Radical Republicans the votes of all the disaffected, and then, if we please to unite with them, we have some hope of success." One of the group of gentlemen then took up the conversation, and said, "There is but little probability that the Democratic Party can elect its candidate, no matter whom it selects. It is divided in this State, and the effect of the division is almost universally felt. If we cast the whole strength of the party with the Reform Republicans, there is some assurance that the conflict will result in substantial benefit to the Democratic cause. What we may think of the candidates personally is another thing." Moving along the hall and through the rooms another group was met. "Around this section, and through New-England," said one, "we may regret that Adams was not chosen, but we should consider that the other parts of the country may prefer somebody else." "Ah, Mister, I suppose you are a Greeley man?" "No, Sir, I am not; although I may vote the ticket as a matter of necessity, where is his strength? Throughout the rural districts, where the poorer classes swear by "What I know about potatoes," he will probably pull a strong vote. His nomination is a well-arranged movement against the Grant Republicans, and if we cannot select a thorough and favorite Democrat, we will have to vote for the Philosopher." "Well," said another wealthy member, "if a split takes place in the Grant party, Greeley may go ahead of his ticket, but I doubt it. His mental qualifications for the position are somewhat deteriorated by his well-known and characteristic dignity of person." [Smiles.]

THE FIFTH-AVENUE HOTEL.

The Fifth-avenue Hotel was last night singularly free from political discussion. Senator O'Brien, in speaking to a fellow-Democrat, said that he considered the nomination of Mr. Greeley a good one, for the object for which it was made, and he rather thought, though speaking only for himself when giving expression to the thought, that there was an understood willingness on the part of the Democrats of the country to favor the running of any one against Grant.

It was, perhaps, a trifle too early yet to give positive expression to an opinion as to what may really be done. He felt, however, that the Democrats would be willing to do anything in reason to secure the defeat of Grant, and that they would be likely to speak well of Mr. Greeley's nomination, whatever might come of it in the end.

In another portion of the main hallway were ex-Collector Thomas Murphy, Hugh Hastings, Mr. Selloner and others prominent in the Republican ranks. Mr. Hastings, whose opinion was seemingly in entire accord with the friends around him, felt that it was difficult for any well informed politician to speak of the Convention's work with a serious face. The idea of the Democratic Party going over to the support of Mr. Greeley, who, so far as his mere declarations could go, had been its life-long enemy, was felt to be too absurd for a moment's credence. And so of the Republican Party; it was felt that to expect Republicans to support Mr. Greeley, beyond a few who might hope for subsequent favors through the columns of his journal, was equally absurd, for, as it must appear clear to every intelligent Republican, the only effect of throwing away a vote for him, however much they might incline to please him, would be simply doing so much in aid of the Democratic effort to weaken the Republican organization and lessen its power for good. It was held that Mr. Greeley's present position as a candidate would, if persisted in, simply show that he was willing to gratify his personal spite to the utmost, even while believing that he was endangering Republican success by so doing; and to expect any considerable portion of a party composed, in the main, of intelligent men to encourage him in so doing was expecting too much.

WHAT THE GERMANS THINK.

The news from Cincinnati was the subject of general discussion in all places of public resort for our German fellow-citizens, and in all their clubs and political organizations, the impression was one of mingled surprise and doubt. The adherents of the "Liberal" movement of course indorse the nomination, believing Mr. Greeley would make an honest President; but many even among these classes, doubt his qualifications for the office, and seriously question his statesmanship, notwithstanding his acknowledged ability as a politician. Some argue that his nomination will considerably weaken the "Liberal" movement, as it was well known that Senator Schurz's choice was Mr. Adams; and it is thought that those who have taken part in the movement with the German Senator will not give a candidate any very active support who was so unexpectedly foisted on them

THE CARLIST REVOLT.

The Priests Endeavoring to Foment a Religious War—Flight of Carlists into France—Contradictory Reports as to the Progress of the Insurrection—Movements of Marshal Serrano.

LONDON, May 3.—Advices received in this city by mail from Spain state that the priests are endeavoring to make the insurrection in that country a religious war. The Government has called upon the inhabitants of Barcelona to deliver up all the arms they have in their possession.

PARIS, May 3.—A dispatch from Bayonne confirms the report that the Carlist leader, Rada, with his command, has fled into France, having been closely pursued by the Spanish Government forces.

The French troops stationed on the Spanish frontier disarm and intern all Carlists. The men escape into France.

LATER.—Advices have been received here from Spain which contradict most positively the dispatches sent from Madrid in regard to the Carlist insurrection. L'Union announces, on what it terms official authority, that Don Carlos is in Spain at the head of his "volunteers," and Don Alphonso, his brother, is with him. The proclamation signed by him which was circulating in Madrid was genuine. There is deep uneasiness in Madrid. The fidelity of the troops even in the capital is doubted, and the precaution is taken to keep some regiments in their barracks. The Carlists, meanwhile, hold the field in respectable force, and are able to disconcert the Government troops.

Señor Castellar, the eminent Republican, writes to Le Rappel that the Republican Deputies in the Cortes will resign in a few days,

A special dispatch to Le Temps reports that the railway between Cordova and Madrid has been cut at the Des Pregnaperros defile, in the Sierra Moreña, by Republican insurgents, who are fortifying that important position, and it was rumored that two companies of infantry had joined them.

The London Times Advises that Canada be Absolved from Her Allegiance—Proceedings in Parliament—Death of a Brother of Tom Hughes.

LONDON, May 3.—The Times of this morning, in discussing the attitude of Canada with regard to the Treaty of Washington, somewhat censures the conduct of the Home Government in its treatment of the Dominion, and hints that it might be beneficial to the world if England were to absolve Canada from her allegiance to the mother country.

The debate in the House of Commons last night, on the bill to repeal the Unlawful Assemblies act, was protracted to a late hour, and was a very exciting one. The motion was for the second reading of the bill. Several Irish members took occasion to make speeches in defense of "home rule." What they wanted was to have the laws of Ireland assimilated with those of England. The Marquis of Hartington, Secretary for Ireland, opposed and denounced "home rule" as synonymous with Fenianism. He explained the present law, showing that it in effect prohibited the assembling of an Irish Parliament.

Dr. Isaac Butt, member for Limerick, declared himself a "Home Ruler," but indignantly denied that he was a Fenian, as intimated by the Marquis of Hartington, of whom he demanded a retraction. He protested against such expressions coming from a Minister, who received his information of the country he sought to rule over through detectives and spies, the real ruling powers in Ireland. If it was true that Home Rulers were Fenians, it spoke well for Home Rule, which had been able to win back to peace men driven into rebellion by shameless legislation. Until Irishmen obtain the right to manage Irish affairs in an Irish Parliament, peace, content and prosperity were impossible. He warned the Commons that if the act was not repealed Ireland would endanger the safety of the Empire. He wanted for Ireland a local Government like that of an American State, and for the Kingdom a National Legislature similar to the American Congress.

Mr. Gladstone said the latter scheme was impracticable. Even American statesmen were divided in opinion as to its wisdom. The recent civil war in the United States grew out of the collisions the system involved. He vindicated home rule; if it converted Fenians, so much the better; but he could not but oppose the bill before the House.

The motion for a second reading was then rejected by a vote of 27 to 145.

In the House of Commons to-night, Lord Lennox, member for Chichester, gave notice that he would make a motion for the appointment of a select Committee to inquire into the practicability of reducing the existing rates for telegrams to India, the Colonies and the United States, and of purchasing the existing cables.

NAPLES, May 3.—The eruption of Mount Vesuvius has entirely ceased, and the inhabitants of the villages which were threatened with destruction by the running lava have returned to their homes. Terrible Cyclone at Madras—Disasters Among the Shipping, and Loss of Life.

BOMBAY, May 3, via LONDON.—Intelligence has just reached here that the City of Madras and vicinity was visited by a terrific cyclone on Wednesday last, which caused a serious loss of life. A number of vessels at anchor in the roadstead, which were unable to put to sea owing to the sudden approach of the cyclone, were wrecked, and most of their crews perished. The immense pier leading out into the water was breached, and the city and suburbs were greatly damaged.

THE M. E. CONFERENCE.

Third Day's Proceedings—Excitement Over the Rules of Order—Appointment of the Standing Committees.

The General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church resumed its session at 9 o'clock yesterday morning in the Brooklyn Academy of Music. In addition to the members there were present a large number of visitors, including many ladies.

Bishop AMES was in the chair, and the religious exercises were carried out by Rev. ALFRED BRUNSON, of Wisconsin, after which the Conference proceeded to business by reading the minutes of Thursday's session.

Dr. HARRIS, in behalf of the Committee on Rules of Order, read their report, which recommended the adoption of the Rules of the Chicago Conference of 1868, with a few modifications, which alterations were taken up in detail by the Conference and discussed, after which they were adopted as follows:

The morning sessions of the Conference are to commence at 9 o'clock and close at 12½ P. M., unless extended by a general vote.

All motions and resolutions to be presented in writing and duplicated by the mover.

The question of how motions were to be decided, and how many amendments could be put, was sent back to the Committee for a definite determination, as by "the rules" the matter was so complicated that it could not generally be understood.

It was decided that the yeas and nays could not be demanded unless eighty members of the Conference called for it.

On the question of the appointment of the Committee on Appeals, the report recommended that the Committee should consist of one member from each Conference delegation.

Dr. E. O. HAVEN moved, in amendment, that it should consist of one clerical member from each delegation, which led to a very serious debate on the question of the lay delegates, Dr. HAVEN contending that as the cases of clergymen would have to come before the Committee, they should not be subject to the arbitrament of laymen. The common law gave the right of trial by one's peers, and so should the Church.

Dr. GOODE was sorry to see such a distinction made in the Conference after the action of the preceding day. It was well known that local preachers went before the Quarterly Conference, which was composed entirely of laymen.

Dr. SLICER said that might be true, yet the local preachers had to carry their appeals to the Annual Conference, which was composed entirely of clergymen.

Dr. HILL, of Erie, said the question touched on a delicate point, that of lay representation in the Conference. He was sorry the question had taken such a shape. As the Conference was now composed there ought to be no such distinction, and he should therefore be in favor of the rule as it stood before the amendment was offered.

Dr. M. D'C. CRAWFORD was sorry the question had come up in the Conference at all. He had supposed that in accepting the lay delegation the Conference took it with all its results. They were all now together, he thought, as a body of Christian brothers. Why should any distinction be made with regard to the Committee on Appeals than in the Episcopacy, where they try the qualification of Bishops; or in Revisals, where they make the laws; or in itinerancy, where they try the Annual Conferences. If these were to be all as exclusive, the laymen would be denied the right of serving on one-half of the committees, and those of the most important character. The common law of trial by peers was evidently misunderstood. The highest authority has decided that it means that free men shall be tried by free men, and the question has no right to be introduced into ecclesiastical law. It belonged solely to the civil law. If a minister was guilty of crime, would he be allowed a jury of ministers; or if a Judge was on trial, would he be allowed a jury of Judges? Who would think of such a thing? He was opposed to the amendment, for if the ministers began to make such invidious distinctions, where would it end? The Conference had met as brethren, and he hoped they would sit there as a body of Christian men, engaged in a Christian work.

After some further debate, Dr. COOPER moved that the amendment by Dr. HAVEN lay on the table, which was adopted by 220 votes in the affirmative to 157 in the negative.

Judge MCCALMONT moved that the words "the person on trial should have the right to choose whether he be tried only by clergymen or by a mixed Committee on Appeals," be added to the original rule of order; but after some debate, this was also laid on the table, and the rule was finally adopted that "the Committee on Appeals should consist of one member from each delegation."

The nominations for the Standing Committees were then made the order of the day.

Dr. KYNETT moved that the names of each committee man be taken as a ballot from each delegation, instead of viva voce, but on motion the question was laid on the table, and the five Secretaries proceeded to take the nominations, which were all adopted without question.

The following are the lists of the principal committees, the first two showing the conferences, and the others being arranged in the same order.

Death by Drowning of Six Members of the Nicaragua Canal Surveying Expedition.

The Panama Star & Herald, of April 19, received by the Ocean Queen at this port yesterday, supplies details of a calamity already made known to the reader by our telegraphic columns. The Star & Herald says: "The steam-ship Moselle, which arrived at Aspinwall on the 17th inst. from Greytown, brings account of a frightful accident which occurred on the bar at the latter port, for the following particulars, of which we are indebted to H. B. WHITMASH, Esq., Purser of the steamer: On the 12th inst. a sad accident occurred off Greytown, resulting in the death of six persons. The United States war steamer Kansas, Capt. HATFIELD, had arrived on the coast, a few days previously, with an expedition under Capt. CROSSMAN, to survey the country across to the Pacific, to see if it is practicable to cut a canal across there. They landed some thirty men at the mouth of the Colorado River, and had gone off up to Greytown for supplies, when on the morning of the 12th, Capt. CROSSMAN, in crossing the bar in the ship's whale-boat, was capsized and drowned in the surf. The accident being seen from the ship, two other boats were sent to render assistance, both of which, however, were capsized, and an officer and four men drowned. Capt. HATFIELD will, for the present, take charge of the surveying expedition, handing over the command of the ship to Lieut. WHITE."

The following additional items we received by telegraph from our Aspinwall correspondent: "The United States steam-ship Kansas, Capt. HATFIELD, with the Nicaragua Canal Surveying Expedition, arrived at Greytown on 3d inst. On the 12th, Capt. CROSSMAN, in command of the expedition, in coming in over the bar in a whale-boat got capsized. Minuet guns were fired from the vessel, but no aid could be given from shore. As the ship lay six miles away and out of sight, no one knew what they meant. The steam-launch had already been sent up to meet the steam-ship Moselle with cargo and a canoe with mails. The canoe arrived in time to save Paymaster BEMIS and one of the crew, and to tow in the cutter with sixteen men. Others swam ashore. Three came in on an empty cask. Capt. CROSSMAN, Sailing-master FORAY and four seamen were drowned. Of them only the body of one seaman was found. Number of officers and men saved, twenty-seven."

The following are the names of the officers and men from the United States steamer Kansas, drowned by the late accident on the bay at Greytown: Commander, A. F. CROSSMAN; Master, ALFRED FOREE; Coxswain, WM. WALKER; ordinary seamen, WILLIAM ARKWRIGHT, EMANUEL BINGFIELD, and JAMES ELEY.

Another Rascality of the Ring.

For twelve years past Mr. ADOLPH SCHLEICHER has filled the position of Police Court interpreter at Jefferson Market. During that time he has only been absent from duty ten days. Owing to the rascalities of the Ring, Mr. SCHLEICHER was not paid his salary since last September, Controller GREEN not having funds at his disposal. A few days ago Mr. SCHLEICHER called on the Controller for his arrears of pay, and was informed that he could not be paid, as there were two interpreters at Jefferson Market on the pay-roll, and the Controller could not determine which one was really the interpreter. SCHLEICHER asked the name of the other interpreter, and was informed that it was THOMAS BARCLAY. No such person ever did a dollar's worth of duty as interpreter in the Police Court. Mr. SCHLEICHER has filed his appointment by Justices COX and LEDWITH with Controller GREEN, and entertains hopes of receiving his money.

A New Chapel.

The City Mission has taken the premises No. 134 Bowery, near Grand-street, for the purpose of offering popular preaching services on Sabbath evenings, for the crowds that throng that great thoroughfare. The Young Men's Christian Association will also throw open rooms for reading, conversation, &c., and seek to entertain the young men of that vicinity. The opening services will be held Sabbath evening, May 5, when the first of a series of Sabbath evening sermons will be preached by Rev. Dr. JOHN HALL.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

SENATE....WASHINGTON, Friday, May 3.

Mr. MORTON moved to reconsider the vote by which the bill changing the time for holding elections in Washington and Idaho Territories was passed. Agreed to. The question recurred on the passage of the bill, but the expiration of the morning hour put a stop to further action on it.

POST-OFFICE APPROPRIATIONS.

The unfinished business, the Post-office Appropriation bill, came up.

On motion of Mr. MORTON, the five minute rule was applied to the debate on the bill.

Mr. PRATT, from the Committee on Pensions, reported a bill increasing by twenty per cent. the present rates of pensions to those persons permanently disabled by the loss of both eyes or two limbs, and also those permanently and totally disabled from manual labor by the loss of one hand or one foot.

Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN introduced a bill for the better preservation of harbors and other navigable waters within the United States, making it an offense punishable by a fine of from $50 to $500 for the master of any vessel to throw out rubbish, ballast, &c., which may impede navigation.

The pending question, on the Post-office Appropriation bill, was on the amendment increasing the Pacific Mail subsidy to $1,000,000.

The amendment was discussed at length, and amended so as to authorize the Postmaster-General to contract with the lowest bidder for carrying an additional monthly mail for ten years from the 1st of October, 1873, at a compensation not to exceed the rate per voyage now paid under existing contracts. It was then adopted, and the Senate, at 4¾ o'clock, adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

THE TARIFF.

Immediately after the reading of the journal the House went into Committee of the Whole, Mr. SCOFIELD, in the chair, on the Tariff bill.

The debate was opened by Mr. COX in a speech in favor of free trade, or, as he phrased it, unshackled exchange and unhampered commerce. He denounced both the majority and minority bills as shams, and as shams he opposed them. What the country wanted was not pretended, but real reduction. On behalf of national equity outraged by the tariff system, on behalf of the impoverished and unrepresented masses, and on behalf of the spirit of true liberty, he entered his protest and that of his constituents against all schemes that made the Government the organ of oppression and not the refuge of the people.

Mr. RANDALL favored the bill reported by Mr. DOWES with certain amendments, which he indicated. He would abolish the internal revenue except on spirits, fermented liquors and tobacco, and he would fix the tax on spirits at seventy cents a gallon; on fermented liquors, ninety-six cents a barrel of thirty-one gallons; and on tobacco twenty-four cents a pound, and on cigars a half-cent each.

The debate was further continued by Messrs. CONGER, BRIGHT, TOWNSEND of Pennsylvania, LAMISON and EAMES.

Mr. DAWES, Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means, who had reported the bill, closed the debate. He pictured the financial problem inherited by this Administration, and showed that since it came into power $327,000,000 of the public debt had been extinguished; nearly as much refunded at five and four and a half per cent.; the internal taxes reduced from 310 to 132 millions, and the customs duties diminished thirty millions.

While Mr. DAWES was speaking the news of the probable nomination of Mr. GREELEY at Cincinnati reached the House, and for a time interrupted the proceedings. Members gathered in the vicinity of the Speaker's desk to ascertain the news, which seemed to afford satisfaction and amusement to all sides.

Mr. HOAR remarked he might congratulate the House on the triumph of the great principles of protection.

Mr. RANDALL intimated that HORACE GREELEY was an honest man, anyway.

Mr. DAWES, in resuming his speech, said that after the announcement just made, he did not know that there was any occasion for him to further advocate the American principle. He went on, however, with his remarks, but had very little attention from the House, owing to the prevailing excitement over the proceedings of the Cincinnati Convention.

THE GENERAL APPROPRIATIONS.

At the conclusion of Mr. DAWES' speech, the Committee rose, and Mr. GARFIELD presented the Conference report on the Legislative, Executive and Judicial Appropriation bill, the principal question in dispute between the two Houses being on the clause authorizing the employment of Treasury detectives. The Committee reported on this question a paragraph imposing restrictions on such employment, and requiring such agents to file with the Department a written statement setting forth the particulars of the several claims which they propose to recover.

The report was concurred in—87 to 77—and then the House at 4 o'clock adjourned.

The session of to-morrow is to be for general debate only.

Marking Imported Spirits by Customs Officers.

The following letter from the Secretary of the Treasury will be found to be of interest to importers of distilled spirits:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, April 30, 1872.

SIR: The following instructions in reference to the branding or marking of imported distilled spirits are hereby issued for the future guidance of officers of the Customs, and will be deemed and held by them to supersede all former regulations on the same subject, so far as they conflict therewith:

First—Upon the landing of distilled spirits in casks upon the wharf, and the due examination thereof by the gauger, each cask shall be marked by him or under his supervision, so as to show the name of the port, date of importation, rate of proof, and number of gallons contained therein.

Second—A record of these facts shall be made by the gauger who marks the casks in a book to be furnished him by the Surveyor or other supervising officer for that purpose, the record to be made at the time of marking, and the books, when full, to be placed on file in the Custom-house, for reference whenever necessary.

Third—Distilled spirits imported in cases, or otherwise than in casks, as they cannot in that condition be examined or tested on the wharf, will not be subject to marking under these instructions.

W. A. RICHARDSON,
Acting Secretary.

To C. A. ARTHUR, Esq.,
Collector, New-York.

Association of American Medical Editors.

This organization will hold its third anniversary meeting in Philadelphia, Monday, May 6, 1872. The members will assemble for the transaction of business at 11 o'clock A. M., and the President, Dr. B. F. DAWSON, of this City, will deliver the annual address at 8 o'clock in the evening. The meetings will be held in Horticultural Hall, on Broad-street.

Imminence of War Between Republics of Honduras and Salvador.

The Honduras correspondent of the Panama Star & Herald writes: "The most remarkable document from this State is a manifestation by President MEDINA to the people of the Republic, in which he points out the patience with which he has suffered injuries and calumnies of the Press of Salvador because only affecting himself individually, but now that in addition to all this President GONZALEZ gave his countenance to such things, and thereby the honor and dignity of Honduras were insulted, which could not much longer be borne; he therefore appealed to the patriotism and bravery of the people to save the honor of the Republic and punish the ingratitude of Salvador. If war does happen, Honduras, says the President, will not be responsible. With respect to this Republic, persons recently from Central America give it as their opinion that war between Honduras and Salvador is very likely to take place. But as in doing so she would be opposed by both Salvador and Gautemala, she must count on some effective assistance from some of the other States. On account of the publication of the treaty concluded between the Governments of Salvador and Gautemala being characterized as highly threatening for Honduras as well as for the peace of all Central America, President MEDINA has decreed that all official relations between Honduras and Salvador are broken off until a better understanding is re-established between the countries, and the Republic is declared in a state of war."

VAN SAUN FORGERY CASE.

Probable Whereabouts of the Check—John A. White Admitted to Bail.

The examination in the $50,000 forgery case, before Judge DOWLING, was resumed yesterday morning. Upon the opening of the Court, the Assistant District-Attorney, Mr. SULLIVAN, moved for an adjournment until this morning at 10 A. M., on the ground that it would take him until that time to produce the witness who holds the check. The motion was granted by Judge DOWLING. Then Mr. HULL, the counsel for the accused, ALBERT VAN SAUN, begged that the Judge would admit him to bail, as he had given himself up, and his mother (who was present in Court and wept bitterly) would give all necessary securities. Judge DOWLING refused, saying that he could not do so until after the termination of the investigation. The prisoner was therefore taken back to the Tombs.

The reporter of the TIMES has been informed that the witness who holds the check is no less an individual than Mr. PARSONS, who acted for the Bar Association against our corrupt Judges. He has returned from Albany and will be put on the stand this morning. The reporter asked him if he held the check. He refused to make any statement at first, but admitted subsequently that there was a package of papers in his office connected with Mr. SMITH's affairs which in the hurry of the impeachment business he had not had time to examine. A nod is said in the wisdom of our ancestors to be as good as a wink to a blind horse; it may be assumed, therefore, that when Mr. PARSONS has examined this package, the famous check will be among the other papers.

During the day Ex-Judge FITHIAN, on behalf of JOHN A. WHITE, one of the defrauded parties, and a witness against VAN SAUN, made an application to Judge BRADY, in Supreme Court, Chambers, to have his client released from the House of Detention, to which he had been committed by order of Justice DOWLING. It was stated on behalf of Mr. WHITE that he was willing and ready to furnish bail in any amount which the Court might deem necessary to secure his attendance.

Mr. SULLIVAN, who appeared on behalf of the people, said it had appeared to Justice DOWLING that the circumstances of the case indicated that there had been something like a compounding of the felony. The two witnesses, including WHITE, who had the forged checks in their possession originally, were curiously unable to account for the manner in which they had passed out of their possession. A person who had been attorney for the witnesses, had stated to him (Mr. SULLIVAN) that the checks had passed out of their hands at a date subsequent to that fixed by the witnesses, and the circumstances had so strongly impressed Justice DOWLING of the witness' unwillingness to appear and testify, that he had directed that the parties should not be allowed to communicate with each other.

Ex-Judge FITHIAN, on behalf of WHITE, protested against the commitment of a citizen to prison without even a complaint being made against him.

Judge BRADY said he must assume that the commitment was properly granted, but it must, nevertheless, be admitted that the case was clearly one in which bail should be accepted, the only question being the amount at which it should be fixed.

Mr. SULLIVAN suggested that the amount should be fixed at at least $10,000.

Judge BRADY thought $5,000 would be sufficient to secure the attendance of Mr. WHITE, and fixed his bail at that amount, which was forthwith furnished and Mr. WHITE released from custody.

UP THE HUDSON.

A Death-Bed Marriage—Exploits of a Burglar in the Village of New-Paltz.

From Our Own Correspondent.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Thursday, May 2, 1872.

A few days ago a man named COLEMAN ROBINSON, who resided at Brewster Station, Putnam County, was thrown from his carriage and had one of his legs broken, but was not supposed to have been much injured otherwise. He was engaged to be married to a Miss LITTLE, of Carmel, and sent for her to take care of him while he was confined to the house. She declined unless they were united in marriage. He assented to the proposition, and last Tuesday evening they were joined in wedlock. The next day he complained of being much worse, and in the evening died. Miss LITTLE was, therefore, a maid, a bride and a widow within twenty-four hours. Mr. ROBINSON left property behind to the amount of a million and a half of dollars.

A burglar created a panic in the little village of New-Paltz, across the river, this week. After entering one or two buildings, he next went to the residence of ABRAM HASBROUCK. He entered the front door by turning the key with a pair of nippers. He examined several rooms, and had secured a pair of gloves and an overcoat, when he was surprised by Mr. HASBROUCK and fled. Mr. HASBROUCK pursued him hotly. This was at 3 A. M., and the moon was shining brightly. After running a few rods, the burglar dropped the overcoat and a bundle in the road, and fired his pistol without looking back. Mr. HASBROUCK cried out several times, "Stop, you thief, or I'll shoot," when the burglar suddenly turned and shouted, "—— you, I'll make you stop." Mr. HASBROUCK not being armed, started back for home at a lively gait, the thief following close in his rear. Coming to the overcoat which the thief had dropped, Mr. HASBROUCK endeavored to pick it up, but the burglar was so close on him he did not dare to stop, and so left it for the thief. The latter has not yet been caught.

NOTES FROM THE PEOPLE.

Solid for Grant.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In the proceedings of the Cincinnati Convention published in some of last evening's and this morning's papers, I notice my name among others attached to a protest against the nomination of HORACE GREELEY for President, purporting to be signed by "representative delegates" from New-York to this interesting gathering of disappointed office-seekers. Now, my name has been used not only without my consent, but without my knowledge, and I am informed that a large number of the other names used by this Convention have been appropriated in the same way. Now, Sir, I protest against the use of my name in such company. I voted for GRANT once, and intend to do so again. I don't hold a Federal office, never did and don't want one; am not a free-trader, and don't expect to become one; am not a politician, and would'nt be if I could; am not a delegate to the sorehead Convention, and most emphatically protest against being dragged into it even by name. I am solid for GRANT.

Yours, &c., DE WITT STAFFORD.

Fourth-Avenue Cars.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Your "Minor Topics" item on the subject of the Fourth-avenue Railroad line is to the point, and I can verify it. I have frequently waited from fifteen to twenty minutes for a car, at 10½ in the evening, and then been compelled to walk home, despairing of the appearance of any. The road is run entirely in the interest of the owners, and in many of its features is really an extortion on the public. Let Mr. VANDERBILT run cars enough and often enough to be depended on, and his present selfish policy would be proved a wrong one in a pecuniary view. At present, after 7 at night, the road is unreliable.

Yours, C.
NEW-YORK, Friday, May 3, 1872.

Our Piers.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I have been a reader of your paper for a long time, and have read about all of the reforms that you have caused in our City Government. I would like to call your attention to some of the piers along the East River—Pier No. 3 especially; it is a disgrace to the City. Let one of your reporters come and look at it, and see the teams and trucks go up and down it. There is hardly a day but a heavy-loaded truck goes through it. On April 30 there was a plank a man was standing on, and it went through with the man on it. Now if a horse breaks a leg who is responsible for it? By answering you will oblige a great many around.

Yours, respectfully, A. S.

FRIDAY, May 3—P. M.

The sales of Gold were advanced this forenoon from 112⅞@113⅛ ₱ cent. on rather lower Cable prices for the English and American funds in London. The cause of the change abroad was not understood, and the speculators in Gold made the most of the fall in the quotations. Subsequently the rates returned to 112⅞ ₱ cent. The export demand for Saturday's steamers was not large, and the difference in the shipments from this time last Spring is quite marked. Exchange showed a little more firmness, at 109⅞ ₱ cent. on London, but no inclination to advance.

There was a better offering of Money to the Brokers at 7 ₱ cent. than yesterday, and the market is called comfortable at this rate.

The advance in Gold made the Public Funds firm, especially on the Coupon 5-20s and the 5 ₱ cents dealt in abroad. The amount of stock offered on the market continues moderate, and much larger sums would be taken for Europe if to be had within current limits.

On the Stock Exchange, in the Railroads, Telegraph and Pacific Mail Stocks there was an active time through the forenoon and to the close of the Second Board of the Exchange, the turn of the market, after the early opening, being somewhat bearish, without making any very decided or lasting impression on prices. The largest fluctuations were in Pacific Mail, sales at 78@76⅞@77⅛@76⅞ ₱ cent. Erie Stock was lower on Cable figures from London, but this Stock is now so entirely controlled by the European markets that the ups and downs of 1@2 ₱ cent. are scarcely noticed on the Exchange here. Rock Island Stock was less firm than at the close yesterday. In the three light fancies of Ohios, Union Pacific and C., C. and Indiana Central a large business was done, and prices were in favor of the bearish side of the market. Western Telegraph kept firm on an active demand for the Stock. New-York Central, Lake Shore and North-western were partially weaker ⅛@⅜ ₱ cent., as compared with last night.

Later in the day there was a better tone to the Railroads and Miscellaneous Shares, with less inclination on the part of Short sellers to press contracts. In the Gold Room 113 ₱ cent. was again paid, and the market closed at about this figure. The shipments of Gold Coin by the steamers, to-morrow, are estimated less than $500,000. The Exchange on London left off firm at 109⅞ ₱ cent. Private telegrams from London intimate a somewhat increased demand for Money at the Bank of England rate of 4 ₱ cent. per annum. The action of the Senate in favor of the increased Pacific Mail subsidy was known in the Street at 4½ P. M. Money closed easy at 7 ₱ cent. The following quotations on the general market were made at 5 o'clock P. M.

A Case of Mistaken Identity.

Mr. LAUNCELOT GAMBRILL, the gentleman who was arrested on Thursday charged with having obtained two pieces of silk, valued at $262, from CAMPION & STUART, of No. 831 Broadway, by means of a worthless check, proves to be entirely innocent of the charge preferred against him. Mr. GAMBRILL, who is a wealthy and reputable merchant of Wilmington, N. C., was made the victim of mistaken identity by the clerk who pointed him out to an officer and caused his arrest. The victim of this disagreeable mistake was discharged from custody yesterday. He is a member of the firm of GAMBRILL & HOUSMAN, who own an extensive cotton-press in Wilmington.

The high position of the author, the interest of the subject, and the number and beauty of the illustrations combine to make this one of the most important and valuable of recent American publications. The illustrations have been engraved under Prof. Dana's personal supervision, and the publishers have spared no effort to render it in all particulars a perfect specimen of book-making.

The object in view has been to present a popular account of Corals and Coral Islands without sacrifice of scientific precision, or on the main topic of fullness. The Road runs from Buffalo to the Detroit River, and is the Eastern link in the new AIR LINE FROM BUFFALO TO CHICAGO, and has been under construction for about two years past by railroad men who have seen the necessity for a STEEL RAIL, LOW GRADE SHORT ROUTE between the great railroad systems which diverge from Chicago, Toledo and Buffalo.

Among the builders of the road, by whose cash subscriptions 220 miles (out of 290) have already been graded, bridged and made ready for the superstructure, a large part of the steel rails bought, all of the materials for the stations, and a part of the equipment purchased, are:

MILTON COURTRIGHT, JOHN F. TRACY, DAVID DOWS, WM. L. SCOTT, HENRY FARNHAM, R. A. FORSYTH, HENRY H. PORTER, JOHN M. BURKE, M. L. SYKES, JR., B. F. ALLEN, all directors, either in the Chicago and North-west, or the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; GEO. OPDYKE, of the Midland Road; JOHN B. ALLEN, SIDNEY DILLON, DANIEL DREW, J. S. CASEMENT, J. & J. CASEY, O. S. CHAPMAN, JOHN ROSS, DAVID STEWART, and F. H. WINSTON.

THE ROAD will be

either BUILT or in contemplation between Buffalo and Chicago, and will also shorten the distance between Toledo and Buffalo twenty-three miles.

THE MAXIMUM GRADE on the entire line does not exceed FIFTEEN FEET to the mile—and Ninety-six per cent. of the road IS STRAIGHT.

THE ROAD WILL BE COMPLETED and in running order on or before Dec. 31 of this year.

The principal and interest of the bonds are payable either in New-York, London or Frankfort.

We confidently recommend the bonds to all classes of investors.

MIDLAND PACIFIC RAILWAY

7 Per Cent. Gold Bonds,

Limited to $18,333 per mile and secured by a first mortgage on a completed road running from Nebraska City, on the Missouri River, to Lincoln, the capital of Nebraska. This division has been open one year, and IS NOW EARNING MORE THAN THE INTEREST ON ITS BONDS. It is the central link of a direct East and West road now being rapidly built from Urbana, Ill., through a very rich agricultural and densely populated district the greater part of the way to Grand Island, on the Union Pacific. This new line is about 610 miles long, and much needed by the section of country which it traverses, therefore receives very liberal aid toward its construction, and the completion of the entire line is anticipated within 1873. In the meantime we shall sell the bonds only on completed road. This will make the shortest route from the Atlantic to the Pacific, it being almost an air line.

We recommend these bonds as a prime security. Coupons payable Feb. and Aug. 1, free of tax, in the City of New-York. Present price 90 and accrued interest in currency.

AT A SPECIAL TERM OF THE SUPErior Court of the City of New-York, held at the Court-house, in the said City, on the 20th day of April, 1872. Present, Hon. William E. Curtis, Judge. —In the matter of the petition of LEILA S. McKESSON, for the discharge of certain mortgages of record.—Upon the petition of Leila S. McKesson, dated April 12, 1872, from which it appears that she has an interest in certain lands and premises in the City of New-York, situated in the block between Seventy-eighth and Seventy-ninth streets, Ninth and Tenth avenues, in said City, a part whereof are described in a certain mortgage, dated April 9, 1836, made by John E. Forbes to William Brown, to secure the payment of four thousand, six hundred and seventy-four dollars and interest, in five years from said date, and which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the Register of the City and County of New-York, in liber 211 of mortgages, at page 256, on the 10th day of December, 1836; and the residue whereof are described in a certain other mortgage, bearing date the said 9th day of April, 1836, made by the said John E. Forbes to the said William Brown, to secure the payment of two thousand, seven hundred and twenty-six dollars and interest in five years from said date, and which said mortgage was recorded in the office of the Register of the City and County of New-York, in liber 211 of Mortgages, at page 259, on the 10th day of December, in the year 1836; that the said mortgages have each been duly paid, but have never been discharged of record: that the said mortgagee has been dead for more than five years: that administration was taken out on his estate in the year 1840 by the public administrator of the City of New-York, and that said mortgages have not nor has either of them been assigned. Now, on motion of Sanford, Robinson & Woodruff, attorneys for said petitioner, it is ordered, that all persons interested show cause before one of the Judges of this Court, at a Special Term thereof, to be held at Chambers, in the new Court-house, in the City of New-York, on the 14th day of May, in the year 1872, at the opening of Court on that day, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, why the prayer of the said petition should not be granted, and the said mortgages and each of them be discharged of record. It is further ordered that this order be published twice in each week for three successive weeks in the New-York Times, and in the New-York Transcript, two newspapers published in the City of New-York. WM. E. CURTIS, Judge.

DAILY, WEEKLY AND SEMI-WEEKLY.

This journal is now thoroughly identified with the greatest political necessity of the hour—uncompromising warfare against all forms of corruption, whether in national or local government. For years past the TIMES has been exposing the demoralizing schemes of self-interested politicians, and its recent warfare upon the Tammany Democrats has been received with universal approval. It has adhered to the pledge given in its original prospectus, more than twenty years ago, that the public should be truly represented, and their interests faithfully guarded through its columns. Its record has been pure and honorable, and the highest aim of its proprietors is to render it more and more worthy of its past history, and of the confidence which the public repose in it. Two out of three of the original proprietors still direct its policy, and guide it on all public questions. They purpose that the TIMES shall continue to keep clear of all narrow and unworthy influences and cliques, and aim to represent the great body of the public, as distinguished from personal factions. It occupies a perfectly independent position, and is free to speak the truth on all subjects and about all men. Its greatly increased circulation throughout the country adds to its power and influence. It will continue to be a faithful exponent of Republican principles, recognizing the claims of American industry in adjusting the sources of revenue; and it will advocate with untiring energy every cause which tends to further the welfare of the people.

A very full summary of news, and many general articles of great interest, are published in the Semi-weekly editions; and in the Weekly edition there is an unabridged report of the proceedings at the Farmers' Club, an excellent summary of political information, and a great variety of matter suitable for family reading.

The NEW-YORK TIMES is pre-eminently a family paper, all objectionable advertisements being rigidly excluded; and it has a constantly increasing circulation among the most respectable classes of the community.

To Advertisers.

☞ For the accommodation of up-town residents, advertisements for insertion in the TIMES will be received at No. 54 West 32d-st., junction of Broadway and 6th-av.; No. 308 West 23d-st., opposite Grand Opera-house, and No. 1,241 Broadway, between 30th and 31st sts., at same rates as are charged at office of publication.

☞ The NEW-YORK TIMES has opened a branch office in Brooklyn at No. 111 Fulton-st., junction of Fulton and Main, where advertisements will be received until 5 P. M.

☞ Throughout the Presidential canvass, we shall publish fuller reports of meetings and conventions in each State than any other New-York journal. The dispatches we are now receiving from Cincinatti and other points in the West afford examples of the thorough and impartial manner in which our correspondents will perform their work. Very full dispatches will be forwarded by telegraph, supplemented by careful letters. Our desire is to place before the public the latest and most trustworthy information, and we have made ample arrangements for that purpose.

We published, yesterday, a letter from Mr. WILLIAMS, President of the Board of Excise, and former President of the Liquor-dealers' Association, which is less ingenuous than it appears. Mr. WILLIAMS claims that the receipts of the Board were paid over to the City, and that a full account had been rendered to the Controller; but he forgets to state that the account was only rendered on Wednesday last, and was extorted by the direct demand of Mr. GREEN. He also neglects to explain his violation of the law, which required him to hand over the moneys for licenses "within five days of the receipt thereof" to the City Chamberlain. The public, too, will not hear with any satisfaction that when an average tax of one hundred dollars could have been fairly levied on each of the 7,470 liquor-dealers, thus bringing into the Treasury over seven hundred thousand dollars, only fifty dollars was collected by this Board, though the old Board collected some two hundred dollars on each license.

We acquit Mr. WILLIAMS of any personal dishonesty, but we doubt the benefit of such lax dealing with liquor-dealers.

It is a curious fact that the strength first displayed by Mr. GREELEY in the Cincinnati Convention came largely from men known as Southern "carpet-baggers." Any one who wishes to know exactly what Mr. GREELEY thinks, in his sober moments, of this class of politicians, will do well to consult his speech of June last on his return from the South. He never employed his fine talent for denunciation to better effect; and though the last performances of his Southern friends may induce him to think better of them, we do not know that it will produce that result with the public.

We presume that no one is blind to the fact that the nominations at Cincinnati, yesterday, were the result of "Liberal" bargaining. However the Convention may have avoided the theory of free trade, the practice of it, as applied to votes, was in the highest favor. Perhaps the men with convictions, who regard themselves as betrayed, may now recall Senator FENTON'S prudent letter, published on the eve of the Convention, in which he said, "I assume it will be patriotic and wise; if not we are not bound to support it."

A year ago Mr. JEFFERSON DAVIS advised his Southern admirers to keep quiet and take no part in politics until they held the balance of power, and predicted that they would soon do so. Does Mr. GREELEY imagine that his nomination is to give his friend DAVIS the opportunity he is waiting for?

The North Carolina Democratic State Convention declined to welcome the Cincinnati Convention's action in advance, and the leading speaker declared that, between liberal and illiberal Republicans, he had no choice. This is the first indication of the feeling of the Democratic Party—independent of its leaders—since the Cincinnati movement took definite shape, and as such it is significant.

Can any one tell, from the action of the Cincinnati Convention, what its candidates would do, if elected, in regard to either revenue reform, civil service reform, or the Kuklux law?

The End of a Farce.

The first tendency of most people yesterday, when they heard that the Cincinnati Convention had nominated HORACE GREELEY for President, was to laugh; indeed, the news was received everywhere as if it had been the latest joke of some well-known humorist. Although it would be very easy to give a ridiculous turn to the entire proceedings, it may be doubted whether that line of treatment would be in harmony with the thoughts of most sensible men who consider the various elements which were represented in the Convention. There can be no question that a great many persons whose opinions are entitled to respect went to Cincinnati with objects in view which were far from discreditable either to them or the nation. It cannot but be a mortification to any one who is interested in the progress of government to observe what a very slight degree of influence these men exercised. The "intellect" of the Cincinnati Convention went for nothing. The earnest members of it were overpowered at once by that force which has already done so much harm in the world, and appears destined to do a great deal more—the force represented by persons who take up politics as a trade, merely for the sake of what they can make out of it, and without the slightest regard for the welfare of the people at large. It is known—we have it on the authority of men like Mr. SAMUEL BOWLES—that wire-pulling and intriguing of the most debased kind went on at Cincinnati from the beginning to the end. We have no exalted opinion of Senator SCHURZ; but we may do him the justice to suppose that when he set in motion the machinery which brought about this Convention, he had something better in view than the nomination of Mr. HORACE GREELEY. We may say the same with much greater confidence of Mr. SAMUEL BOWLES, and other gentlemen of real ability and sincere purposes, who proved to be the victims of the professional politicians—the curse of our country. It is true that these gentlemen might have foreseen what has happened. They might have known how little chance there was of getting a convention, in which men like FENTON played a leading part, to take that elevated view of the necessities of the hour which they have lately professed. They might have done some good by co-operating cordially with the bulk of the party, and by acting with those who will represent that party at Philadelphia. As it is, their names have only been used to dignify an assemblage of worthless adventurers, who could not have obtained the ear of the public for a moment if they had come out in their own proper characters.

It is easy to laugh over such a failure as this, but after all there is something in it which is calculated to check idle laughter. It is not encouraging to the friends of popular government. There would have been something quite intelligible in the nomination of such a ticket as CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS and TRUMBULL. One could easily have seen that such a choice was the expression of a sentiment in the country worthy of sincere attention, especially if well-defined principles had been associated with these names. We have not said a disrespectful word of Mr. ADAMS; we certainly should not have done so had he been nominated. But to nominate a man who is or has been opposed to most of the principles avowed by the best members of the Convention—a man who has been everything by turns and nothing long—a man in whose behalf a singularly disreputable gang of politicians has been actively working for months past—this, we submit, is a result which places the Cincinnati Convention in a thoroughly contemptible position before the world. It has not even the merit of probable success. Nobody in his senses believes that so eminently shrewd and practical a people as this would ever place such a man as HORACE GREELEY at the head of their Government. If any one man could send a great nation to the dogs, that man is Mr. GREELEY. There is no department of business which he would not disorganize and unsettle; there is no wild "ism" which he would not endeavor to incorporate into the framework of our Government; there is no foreign country with which he would not embroil us; there is no crude illusion which he would not eagerly pursue. And then consider the men who surround him, and whom he would naturally desire to place in positions of importance—the Cochranes, the Mudgetts, the Hank Smiths, the Touseys, the Balmers, the Manierres, id genus omne. It would be a sad day for the country when such a tribe obtained command of its destinies. But, in truth, there are not a dozen men in the land, outside of this class, who could be induced to consider Mr. GREELEY'S chances seriously. His candidature may serve to enliven the gloom of politics, and supply the jesters with a new theme; it will take no part in the practical affairs of the world.

This sad farce, however—for it is a sad one, and not wholly laughable, rightly considered—should produce one good result. It should lead the present leaders of the Republican Party to consider their responsibilities to the people, to study the demands of the hour, and to make their proceedings at Philadelphia worthy of the present crisis. We confess that in our opinion such men as Gen. GRANT and Mr. COLFAX are infinitely superior to HORACE GREELEY and GRATZ BROWN. They are honest and sensible men; they will not plunge the country into any wild disorder, or into any new troubles; they will not harass the commercial classes by vexatious experiments; in their hands we shall run no risk of finding ourselves embroiled in endless disputes, or embarrassed by absurd freaks with financial questions. But it is for the Republican Party to decide on the measures it shall attempt to carry out. We earnestly trust that the wisest minds in the party will be applied to the settlement of measures which shall be at once just and liberal toward all classes and all sections in the Union; which shall be worthy of the progressive spirit and temper of the age; and which shall be calculated to increase the honor and renown of the country, and to promote the happiness and prosperity of its people.

City Reform and Sham Reformers.

The full text of Senator PALMER'S provisional charter furnishes a tolerably satisfactory reply to our inquiry of yesterday, "What is to be done for New-York?" It provides for everything which, on behalf of the City, we have asked for, and it provides for a good deal more which we had lost hopes of seeing effected this session. Senator PALMER'S bill is substantially the Charter of the Committee of Seventy, with the cumulative voting clauses and all the necessarily cumbrous administrative machinery which depended on them, omitted. It resembles TWEED'S charter in retaining the double Boards of the Common Council, and in conferring the power of appointing the heads of Departments on the Mayor. It incorporates the highly beneficial clauses of the Seventy's Charter providing for the removal of heads of Departments "for cause," relating to the right of tax-payers to inspect the books of the Corporation, to the weekly publication of accounts in the journal of the City Government, to the abolition of Chamberlain's fees, and to the summary examination of any local official under an order from a Judge of the Supreme Court. It aims at preventing a repetition of the irresponsible imperialism set up by TWEED'S Charter, and all its remedial, as well as many of the other clauses, are taken almost bodily from the Charter of the Seventy.

The chief virtue of the bill is to be found in the fact that it makes a clean sweep of Tammany officials. This will, no doubt, be a subject of intense regret to the organs of the defunct Ring, which were beginning to pluck up courage again, under the impression that the rotten planks which survived the crash of November last, were to be left hanging for another year. The New-York Herald, by all odds the most impudent and thick-headed of the remaining supporters of Mayor HALL and the gang whose fortunes are bound up with his, took occasion yesterday to lavish some very idiotic abuse on the Reform movement and its representatives. A journal which can safely presume on the ignorance of its readers with the assertion that the Committee of Seventy are responsible for our dirty streets, ought, perhaps, to be considered beyond the reach of argument. It may not, however, be inappropriate to recall the fact, that the Herald apologized for the wholesale robbery by TWEED and his confederates, long after it was too manifest for denial, that it has to this day failed to publish the proofs of their guilt, and that it has never ceased to support HALL, who is the true and only cause of all the disorganization and administrative chaos from which the City is suffering. The Herald raves wildly and incoherently about the Committee of Seventy's Charter. Has the Herald, or its friend HALL, any knowledge of a better one that was presented to the Legislature by any appreciable portion of the citizens of New-York? We, in common with the great mass of Reformers, supported the charter because it was the result of the highest ability which could be devoted to the subject, and because there was no other plan which showed the way out of existing anarchy. If the charter needed amendment, the Legislature was ready to amend it, had there been any considerable body of New-York citizens ready to suggest improvements. Those who were, like the Herald, interested in the fortunes of the remaining fragments of the Ring, have done their best to defeat every step of the progress of reform at Albany. When it became a matter of obvious policy to defer to the ill-concealed threats of endless litigation conveyed in the Governor's veto of the charter, it was hardly to be wondered at that the Herald and those like-minded proved as blind as they were in August and September last to the strength of public opinion and the force of aroused public indignation.

Thanks to OAKEY HALL, the honored contributor to the "intellectual department" of the Herald, we have still a Tammany Police Board, Tammany Fire and Health Commissioners, Tammany Commissioners of Charities, and a Tammany street contractor. But, in spite of both HALL and the Herald, we have an honest man in the Controller's office, a legal accounting for City funds everywhere, and a total cessation of fraudulent accounts, forged vouchers, and gross swindling generally. Had the Herald found time, in the intervals of inventing apochryphal stories about the interior of Africa, and crude fictions about Southern outlaws, to aid in accomplishing this much, it might have earned a title to complain that Reform did not advance quickly enough. Having but newly wakened up to the subject, it is not surprising that it should have crowded into its article of yesterday a greater profusion of senile absurdities than even that which usually characterizes the dreary drivel of its "intellectual department."

Who Shall be the Impeachment Managers?

There is now nearly a certainty that at least one of the Judges whose career has brought so much discredit on the American name, is likely to be brought to judgment. Even BARNARD has rights, and we have no desire to say anything that shall interfere with them. His chief right is, that his trial shall be a perfectly fair one, and this is assured to him by the Constitution of the Court of Impeachment, and by the rules of law and the precedents which will govern proceedings in his case. It must not be forgotten, therefore, that the people also have rights, which it is the duty of the Assembly to guard with the utmost care. Their chief right is that the impeachment managers shall be thoroughly in earnest in their work, and shall be both willing and able to get out all the evidence against him, and to present it to the Senate with the greatest force it can be made to possess. There has already been plain speech on this subject, and we believe there is need of more. In selecting the Managers of Impeachment, therefore, we desire to say frankly that the Assembly must not forget the influences which BARNARD and his friends are capable of employing. With him, this is the next stage of the fight for life, and the one at which he is prepared to resort to desperate means. Money and political and personal interest will unquestionably be employed as far as possible. The Assembly must see to it that the men of their choice are absolutely beyond his reach. They must be men who are in perfect sympathy with the movement, and who have been so from the beginning. It is well known that some now more or less prominent in it came in at the last moment. Their motives are open to suspicion. It is quite possible that they have conspired, at this late date, to betray a cause which they could not otherwise defeat. We do not now mention any names, but we are entirely ready to do so if unhappily it should become necessary. We trust the action of the Assembly will not force that necessity upon us. A betrayal of the people now would be more than ever infamous, and we shall not hesitate to point out the men on whom infamy should fall, if we find the interest of the people demands it. Nor will any specious plea of fair play or non-partisan feeling avail in the matter. The Board of Managers is not to be a judicial body. Justice, instead of demanding that it shall be made so, demands, on the contrary, that attention shall be exclusively directed to making it a body capable of prosecuting the impeachment vigorously and completely. The Managers are the attorneys of the people, and with them the accused Judge should have no possible influence. Let the Assembly take care that he cannot have any.

The Fourth-Avenue Bill.

Mr. W. SMYTH, Member of Assembly from Tioga County, wishes it to be understood that he opposed the Vanderbilt Fourth-avenue Railroad bill in the Railroad Committee-room; that he made a speech against it in Committee of the whole; but that, when it came up for a third reading, Mr. WHITBECK'S representation that a compromise had been effected between the Railroad Company and the citizens of New-York, led Mr. SMYTH to think it his duty to vote for the bill, as amended, which he accordingly did. The imputation that members who voted for the bill were actuated by improper motives, so far as such an imputation is conveyed by an article published by us on the 29th ult., and so far as it may be construed as applicable to himself, Mr. SMYTH holds to be totally undeserved; and upon his showing we quite agree with him. He will therefore deplore with us the unfortunate embarrassment which grows out of the existing order of things, and which renders it so extremely hard to discriminate between men who are honest and men who are not.

The same remarks apply to the case of Mr. KINGSLAND, of Clinton County, who writes to us deprecating our condemnation of those who voted for the bill on the third reading, and assuring us that many voted with the purest motives. Mr. KINGSLAND observes that the large confidence reposed in Mr. WHITBECK led members to vote for the bill, on the strength of the statement made by him, who would otherwise have voted against it. We are entirely willing to give these gentlemen, or any others who require and desire it, the benefit of this explanation; and regret very much that appearances should have been so much against them.

Our statement may have been too sweeping, and, so far as it inculpated any who were as guiltless as Mr. SMYTH or Mr. KINGSLAND show themselves to be, there can be no doubt that it was so. Yet when people who have opposed a given measure through thick and thin, turn round at the eleventh hour and vote in its favor, and when the last vote favors the interests of a wealthy capitalist—it must at least be admitted that the business looks doubtful. Its aspect becomes more equivocal still when regular lobby pimps are known to be actively at work, and when persons known to be in close relations with them are strenuous advocates of and voters for the bill to be carried. As regards Mr. WHITBECK'S amendments, there are various opinions. But in any case it is intelligible that Mr. WHITBECK may have introduced them in perfect good faith, and yet the representations on which they were based be imperfect or erroneous, and that thus Mr. SMYTH, Mr. KINGSLAND and others may have voted with good intentions on inadequate information. The reason public suspicion was so instantly excited on the subject, and the reason that suspicion was promptly reflected by the Press was, that the bill, as amended, was rushed through with such unseemly haste, all debate being imperatively stopped, even on the very point a complete knowledge of which was indispensable to those who contemplated changing their previous votes on the strength of it. We have been taken sharply to task for impugning the motives of those who did thus swiftly change their votes; and yet, the ground on which alone their course could be justified was not even suffered to be examined at the time, was declared by Col. HAWKINS to be untenable, and has been called much worse by persons professing to be well informed ever since. Under the circumstances, a just regard for the rights and the interests of the public warrants plain speech, and if the innocent sometimes suffer temporarily with the guilty, all we can say is, that it is not the worst evil that infamously corrupt legislation has brought upon us.

The Philadelphia Ocean Steamers.

A Philadelphia company is building four ocean steamers. Taken by itself, this fact is of little consequence to anybody but the stockholders. The building of four such steamers, or forty, in Philadelphia, would, under ordinary circumstances, simply imply that they were to run to and from that port a few months, or perhaps only a few weeks, and then be sold. A line of large steamers from there to any place either in England or on the Continent would not, if dependent solely upon itself, be likely to pay, and in all probability would, after a very short trial, be given up. But the line is not to be entirely dependent on itself. One of the most wealthy and powerful corporations in the world has taken it under its wing. It is expected to be—although not strictly a part of the interests of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company—yet so clearly connected with it as to insure the experiment at least a good start and a fair trial.

The Philadelphia papers speak of these four vessels as first-class steamers. The question, what constitutes a first-class steamer, or a first-class anything else, is generally a somewhat indefinite one. But these ships are to be over three thousand tons each, and, although there are now a good many steamers afloat considerably larger, it is perhaps fair enough to call a vessel of three thousand tons first-class in regard to size. In reference to speed, they are spoken of as likely to be very fast vessels; but that is a matter about which we do not feel competent to express an opinion, the speed of a vessel being, according to our observation of such things, a point respecting which an accurate judgment can, commonly be much better formed after it is in the water. In regard to the structure, management, and equipment, we have no doubt that they will be well built, carefully officered, and furnished with good accommodations, for the enterprise is in the hands of men who have a high reputation for doing in the best manner whatever they undertake.

The disadvantages of Philadelphia as compared with New-York, in respect to steamship lines, are principally three. First, the small amount of its present foreign commerce; second, the obstruction of the Delaware by ice in the Winter; and third, the greater distance from the ocean. The last of these difficulties is a serious one in regard to sailing vessels, and perhaps still more so in reference to rapid passenger traffic in steamers. The distance is about fifty miles greater from Liverpool to Cape May than to the Narrows, and Cape May is ninety miles by water from Philadelphia. The difference in time which this would occasion would be to first-class passengers a material consideration; but for most kinds of freight, and for steerage passengers, it would be of little account, especially as there is to be deducted from it, in case of transportation to or from Philadelphia, the time by railroad from New-York. The ice in the Delaware involves very frequently in Winter an additional delay, though, perhaps, in the case of a powerful steamer, this delay would seldom be so great as to be much of a consideration; and, indeed, there have been many Winters when, with the help of an ice-boat, such a steamer would have gone up or down the river with scarcely any hindrance from this source at all.

The fact that New-York already has so great a preponderance of the foreign trade is, we think, a much more serious obstacle to the success of these steamers, than either the additional distance or the ice. As a general rule, it is hard to direct even a portion of any traffic to an unaccustomed mart. We do not see how the Philadelphians are going to overcome this disadvantage. When we compare the European commerce of their city with that of our own, the success of their line of steamers is apparently almost an utter impossibility. And yet they have done some things which, a few years ago, would have seemed not only impossible, but of which the mere suggestion would have been considered absurd. It requires no very advanced age, nor extraordinary stretch of memory, to recollect the time when a prediction of the present power of the Pennsylvania Railroad would only have been saved from overwhelming ridicule by being looked upon as too nonsensical even to laugh at. There is one thing very certain in regard to these steamers, and that is, that those having control of the business have gone about it with a quiet energy and determination, which will very effectually test the force and weight of any obstacles in the way of its accomplishment.

But whether the project turns out well or not, this effort to establish a line of American steamers to Europe, is an enterprise worthy of high commendation, and one which, as an example, peculiarly claims the attention of our own business men. If Philadelphia, with a population so much smaller than ours, and with a foreign trade of very insignificant extent and value, compared with that which we possess, can afford to build, for the purpose of running to European ports, four steam-ships of over three thousand tons each, what can New-York afford to do? We leave the question with our importers and shipping merchants, and shall be heartily glad if we are able to publish, at some time not far distant, a full and practical answer to it among our advertisements of sea-going steamers.

MINOR TOPICS.

Mr. SAMUEL BOWLES, writing to the Springfield Republican, on Thursday night, from Cincinnati, said: "The supporters of ADAMS generally feel that they have a dead sure thing. * * * The Brown and Blair appearance is now explained as meaning a combination on GREELEY for President and BROWN for Vice-President. This sounds startling, but it is like the BLAIRS. If this combination appears today, in the Convention, probably ADAMS and TRUMBULL will be put against it." Mr. BOWLES may say that he does not want our sympathy, but we do sympathise with him notwithstanding.

The rain of Thursday morning partly allayed the dust in our streets, but by Friday noon the dust cloud that has overshadowed us for the last fortnight was as thick and disagreeable as ever. In the lower part of the City, the practical jokers who seized the opportunity afforded by the absurd nomination of Mr. GREELEY to ridicule that philosopher by firing countless guns in mockery of him, succeeded in varying the ordinary composition of the dust cloud by mixing with it a vast amount of gunpowder smoke. The result was not precisely an agreeable one, but nothing could make the condition of the atmosphere much worse than it was before. So far as can be learned that worthless tool of TWEED, BROWN, the street-contractor, is still permitted to draw the pay which he does not earn. Mr. GREEN is expected by the community to put a stop to this swindle at once, by refusing to pay any more of BROWN'S bills. Will he adopt this obvious line of duty?

Mr. JUDD'S Jury bill, abolishing the rule which, when it was rigidly enforced, made intelligence a disqualification for jurors in criminal cases, has been signed by the Governor. So one reform, at least, proposed by the present Legislature is accomplished.

Villages at the foot of Mount Vesuvius, after having been blown up by the volcano, have now been blown down by a terrific hurricane, which followed immediately after the eruption had ceased. It is difficult to see any possible connection between the eruption of a volcano and a hurricane, unless it may be that the enormous amount of electricity, generated by the eruption and visible in the continuous flashes of lightning that played about the crater, may have had some possible effect in producing an unusual atmospheric disturbance. It is, however, conceded that scientific men know as yet very little of the laws of earthquakes and volcanoes. During the last few months, we have had so many phenomena of either sort in different parts of the world, as to afford data from which it may be possible to formulate a law of eruptions, earthquakes, and hurricanes, and to establish what connection, if any, exists between them.

Mrs. FANNY HYDE'S practical acquittal has already been used as a precedent authorizing women to pursue the pleasures of the chase in hunting and shooting the perfidious monster man. Mrs. FIDELIA R. MANNING was on Thursday last brought to trial before the Kings County Court of Sessions, charged with having attempted to kill her husband, at whom she had fired twice with a revolver. The intelligent jury heard the evidence, which clearly proved her guilty of the alleged deadly assault, and then gallantly acquitted her upon the convenient and elastic plea of insanity. After this, what is the use of engaging in the mockery of trying a woman for murder achieved or attempted, since it is a matter of certainty that she will not be convicted? The intelligent juryman, who is evidently capable of a process analogous to that called ratiocination in the human being, has decided that the mere fact that a woman has committed murder is a proof that she is insane. Let us, then, save the expense of legal proceedings, and proclaim the right of every woman to kill any man.

Citizens of Hoboken, N. J., have hardly a right to complain so bitterly of thieving by public officials when they show themselves so ready not only to forgive, but to restore to place and power, those who have deceived them. In 1870 one of their Police Justices named WHITE was tried, found guilty, and sent to prison for six months for having embezzled certain sums of money that had been confided to him in trust. After regaining his liberty, a petition numerously signed was sent to the Legislature, praying to have his rights of citizenship restored. The prayer was granted. Later on, Mr. WHITE again appealed to the suffrages of the people, and the result was his re-election to the office from which he had been degraded. Gov. PARKER has just filled up the measures of his hopes by signing his commission. Now, it may be all well enough to restore a truly penitent burglar to his rights as a citizen, but we very much doubt the propriety of clothing a man a second time with a magisterial power that he has once shamefully abused.

Physicians tell us that nervous complaints have never been more frequent than they are in this City at the present time. Men are suffering from nervous exhaustion, women from hysterics and extreme depression of spirits. The cause is not difficult to be ascertained. During the cold, dry weather of February and March, the atmosphere was surcharged with electricity to an unusual and remarkable degree. The human system was thus stimulated to an unusual extent, and the warm, damp days of April, in which the atmosphere was almost devoid of electricity, following immediately after the dry and cold days of the preceding two months, produced a feeling of nervous exhaustion such as the hard drinker feels when he breaks his evil habit for a few days. This explanation, which is that given by one of the leading physicians of the country, is certainly founded on fact, and seems extremely probable.

The present annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church marks an era in the history of that body. Heretofore, the Methodist local and general Conferences, which are the governing bodies of the Church, have consisted exclusively of the clergy. A persistent effort has been made for many years to change the Constitution of the Church, so as to admit lay delegates to the Conferences. The last General Conference passed a resolution requesting the churches to vote upon the question of lay delegates, and the result was that the majority of the members of the Church decided that its government should henceforth be shared by laymen. Lay delegates have accordingly been admitted to the General Conference now in session in this City, and a practical revolution has thus been achieved. Unquestionably this reform is in accordance with the spirit of American institutions, and it will doubtless add to the real strength of the Methodist Church. The government of that body has heretofore been as purely a hierarchy as is the government of the Church of Rome.

AMUSEMENTS.

Musical.

THE CHURCH MUSIC ASSOCIATION.

The concert of the Church Music Association and the last rehearsal on the previous day may always be considered as one performance. Few who have attended the one would miss being present at the other, and the concert can scarcely be thoroughly enjoyed by those who have not listened to the "prova generale." There are works, some of them by great masters, which amateurs only care to hear as a matter of curiosity, and to fill up a gap in their knowledge. It has been more than once hinted that BEETHOVEN'S Mass in D comes under this category. But careful reading and listening has shown how unwise it would be to pass over anything on which the greatest of musicians has set the seal of his genius and his labor. On each hearing the mass gains in melody, in dignity and in eloquence, as a further acquaintance brings us nearer to the composer's thought. To criticise in any adequate manner this great work of the great German is a serious task. It is seldom attempted to be performed even in Germany from its singular obscurity. But it is well known that there was a time when even the Eighth Symphony was considered obscure, and certain of the piano-forte concertos remained unattempted for the same reason. Now the Eighth Symphony is often performed by our own Philharmonic, and ARABELLA GODDARD has made these very concertos familiar to a portion of the musical world. We may hope that in the general increase of musical knowledge, even the Ninth Symphony and this difficult mass may come to be understood, but at present we can only bow our heads and listen to music which is solemn, impressive, awful, transcending all our conceptions of the thoughts of mortal men; to be rewarded from time to time by such heavenly melody as is in the "Gratias agimus," in the "Qui tollis," and in those gleams of light which are vouchsafed to us when in the very turmoil of the "Amen" the four solo voices are heard floating away as it were into an empyrean of their own.

The rehearsal, on Wednesday, of the mass was a trial of our musical faith. The addition of the orchestral parts to the vocal score, with which we had flattered ourselves we were becoming familiar, increased the complexity of the whole to that degree that we observed many who, listening intently to follow the development of the various forms, were compelled every now and then to give it up in despair. What was worse, the singers almost gave it up too. Toward the end of the "Credo," while the anxious conductor beat time, as if under a spell, and the instruments went on and on remorselessly, and the music they evoked seemed more and more unearthly, the voices began to sound in that muffled way which is common when people are uncertain of their whereabouts. Faint shrieks came, from time to time, from the exhausted sopranos, the tenors were inaudible, and if the tremendous "Amen" had lasted much longer, we doubt whether half the voices would have been singing at all. The performance on Thursday night was, therefore, much finer than we expected, and, indeed, in almost every way commendable. The only effect that absolutely missed fire was the "Et Resurrexit," and that mainly because it is so rapid that the mind can hardly seize on it before the following "Et Ascendit" comes in. HAYDN set the example of commencing the "Benedictus" with an instrumental solo. BEETHOVEN gives his to the violin, and that instrument predominates throughout the movement, which was admirably performed. For the rest, Dr. PECH made no attempt at light and shade, but wisely confined himself to the sufficiently difficult task of keeping his forces together. We rejoice to see Dr. PECH continuing to carry out the work on which he has bestowed so much effort. The education and the general culture requisite in a conductor are more rare than the mere technical knowledge which enables a man to wield a baton; and if we think that on this occasion Dr. PECH has been overambitious, we confess that "Thou who aspire too high reach nearer Heaven than those who ne'er aspire."

It seems ungracious, after the fatigues endured by the singers, to have little to say as to the sweetness of the singing in the mass. Mme. JAROWSKY, with an energy and faithfulness we must respect, sang every note set down for her. The beautiful quality of Miss HENNE'S voice remained unchanged to the last, and Mr. LEGGATT and Mr. REMMERTZ did themselves great credit. But, after all, singers are not hod-carriers, and if it was the will of BEETHOVEN to impose on his voices tasks beyond the power of human lungs, the remedy is to divide each solo part between two or more vocalists, so that each should have no more to sing than is reasonable.

It was at the end of one of the most brilliant musical seasons that Western Europe had ever known that the world was startled and shocked by the sudden death of MENDELSSOHN. We say Western Europe, for the four most musical countries were in a state of great political repose and artistic vivacity and correspondence. In the absence of important anxieties an uncommon degree of interest was bestowed on musical affairs. No sooner was an opera of VERDI'S produced in Italy than it was represented simultaneously in Vienna, Berlin, Paris and London. JENNY LIND would close a series of ovations in one capital, and begin a similar one in a second, while the managers were fighting as to who should possess her services in a third. The fair Swede was then young. ALBONI had just appeared, GRISI was in the plenitude of her powers, MARIO was delighting all ears, RONCONI was rising to that eminence as an actor which overtopped anything that had previously been known on the lyric stage, VERDI and MEYERBEER were in the height of their fame: but the crown and glory of the whole musical world was MENDELSSOHN. His praise was on every tongue. Large and enthusiastic musical societies were coming into existence in all parts of Germany and of England, with the main purpose of studying his compositions. Socially and æsthetically there was no figure so interesting when, in the Fall of 1847 he sank, exhausted by labor, by excitement, and the ceaseless strain of alternate production and performance. In '48 this sad event might have passed comparatively unnoticed amid the crash of thrones and the uprising of peoples; but in '47 the shock was prodigious, the grief sincere. Every sort of honor was paid to his memory. "Elijah" was performed at Exeter Hall in solemn silence, orchestra, singers, and even the audience being dressed in black. That scene must have been impressive indeed. Then a search arose for any works, any fragments which MENDELSSOHN might have left behind him, and after a time "Lorelei," the most important, was performed.

HAWTHORNE says that the first chapter of a novel should always be written last. The overture to an opera, as is well known, is always the last thing written. We need not, therefore, be surprised that MENDELSSOHN began his work on the subject of "Lorelei" by writing the finale to an act. The "Ave Maria," for alternate groups of male and female voices, is pretty, but rather more commonplace than we had hoped for.

The audience of Thursday—glad, perhaps, to escape from the severe mental strain of listening to the mass—received it good-humoredly, and gave the vine-dressers' chorus an unexpected encore. The adjuration of Leonora to the rapidly-gathering spirits, and the compact with them, is worthy of MENDELSSOHN'S fame. It is highly dramatic, and was admirably sung, bringing the concert to a triumphant close.

Mrs. IMOGENE BROWN is a concert-singer of the very highest class. Her style is serene, stately and intellectual, and conduces, even more than her voice, which is pure and limpid, to the beauty and elevation of her singing. She combines great intelligence with perfect enunciation, and in her we have a singer capable of that difficult achievement, the delivery of a vehement recitation in the English language without loss of dignity. The concert was most successful in an artistic point of view, and the attentive audience were indulged with an opportunity of applauding from the first long-sustained and delicately-graduated note sung by Mrs IMOGENE BROWN to the very end of her ambitious and brilliant finale.

THE CANDIDATE.

What is Thought About the New-York Tribune and the Ambition of Mr. Greeley to Become President of the United States.

During the past week our mail-box has been again filled to overflowing with letters from former subscribers of the New-York Tribune, who have been induced to sever an almost life-long connection with that journal because of the ambition and inconsistency of its chief editor. Below we print a few of these communications from different States, as a fair sample of the opinions which are entertained by all the writers upon the subject:

A Washington County veteran, who declares that he had faith in Mr. GREELEY, even after his conduct in the bailing of JEFF. DAVIS, writes:

"Please find inclosed $2 for one copy of the WEEKLY TIMES." * * GREELEY and the Tribune are going under here; and I intend to increase the circulation of the NEW-YORK TIMES. My first convert was a Democrat, but we will have him for GRANT. I am now decidedly a TIMES man."

The following extract shows what a hard struggle some of the Tribune supporters are now having between duty and the feeling of attachment which most men are likely to develop for a favorite newspaper:

"Inclosed please find $1, for which please send the TIMES (weekly) for the time for which $1 will pay. * * * I have been a reader of the New-York Tribune for the past ten years, and, at last, must admit the pill too much to swallow, and so have decided to try the TIMES, preferring a stranger to an unreliable and unscrupulous acquaintance."

A gentleman residing at Putney, Vt., who recently requested some specimen copies of the TIMES, writes to inform us that he cannot enjoy himself without it.

"Inclosed please find $5 for DAILY TIMES," says the writer. "I would like to have it commence before the Schurz Democratic mongrel Cincinnati Convention, so that I may have a chance to keep informed on their folly."

Mr. J. G., of Columbia County, New-York State, is informed that his suggestions have been attended to. In future nothing will be left undone to serve the interests of every class of subscribers to the TIMES. In referring to the Tribune this correspondent says:

"I have taken GREELEY'S paper for the last eighteen years from the Hudson office. * * A great many farmers, as well as myself, have resolved not to take it any more. I am taking the TIMES at present, and all the members of the Committee are about to do the same."

An old-time champion of the Tribune in Ulster County, New-York, sends us a Club of fifty names, and a check for $50. He says:

"I had a club for the Weekly Tribune here, but dropped it as soon as I found that H. G. was steering right straight to the Democratic Camp. * * * Almost all our Republicans are disgusted with H. G., and are rooting out his paper from all the towns in this county."

The Tribune loses an intelligent subscriber in the writer of the following vigorous letter:

"With the present week the subscription of the 'Old Club' (Hollowville, Columbia County, N. Y.) of nine subscribers to the Weekly Tribune expires, and to show how the Republicans of this vicinity appreciate the present course pursued by the publishers of the Tribune, and TIMES. I inclose you check for $20, for which you will please forward twenty copies of the WEEKLY TIMES to my address for one year. This list includes the name of every subscriber to the Tribune, hence the Tribune will be stricken from our list. Let every locality follow in the same wake, and the Tribune and 'old HORACE' will be among 'the things that were.'"

A correspondent writing from Warren County, New-York, says:

"Please send me the DAILY TIMES for six months. * * * It is all up with poor HORACE in these parts. I don't think there is more than one 'On to Cincinnati' member hereabouts, and he will soon be sick enough, if I am not greatly mistaken."

An enthusiastic supporter of President GRANT'S Administration writes from Oneida, N. Y., to say that the "sorehead" movement in that town has not made much progress. In regard to the TIMES and Tribune, the writer says:

"Here, as elsewhere, Republicans who have been firm supporters of GREELEY have dropped the Tribune, and are now reading the TIMES. The old philosopher, say they, has this time broken clear from his old moorings. His common sense has forsaken him. Let him drift! I am not one of those who would depreciate the value of the services heretofore rendered to the Republican Party by Mr. GREELEY, but his past days have been his best days. Within a few years he has done a great deal to destroy the public confidence in his judgment. GREELEY as a leader, would be sure to make some spasmodic or Quixotic move, that would plunge him and his followers into ruin. Who would imagine that GREELEY would take such a course, were he twenty years younger? No one. The clear discernment of a more active period of life, would have shown him that the good of the country required the continuance in power of the present Administration. Considering his position in this light, perhaps, after all, the public had best be charitable toward him, and excuse a course which, in his better days, he would not have adopted."

A Vermont correspondent, who appears to have a good idea of the condition of the public mind in the Green Mountain State, discourses about Mr. GREELEY'S declining stock in the following rather quaint vein:

"The time has been when the New-York Tribune was the greatest power, politically, in Vermont. It was the highest authority that could be produced upon almost every subject. GREELEY was the patron saint of a large number of our voters; his ipse dixit was sufficient to settle almost any disputed point. PARTON'S life of this philosopher had a ready sale; but his influence has now departed. Multitudes of his former admirers have turned from him and his paper, with sorrow and distrust, having in their hearts that saddest of all feelings, we know not whom to trust longer. The TIMES is growing in favor daily, for it is easy to be seen that it, with great courage, advocates a thorough moral reform, and to its influence we Vermonters attribute the recent happy revolution in New-York City. Mr. GREELEY is too ambitious to be permanently useful. For example, he knew no more about planning a military campaign than the veriest clod-hopper, and yet, at the breaking out of the rebellion, he thought—from the sacred precincts of his office in New-York City—to plan every campaign, and control the movements both of the political and military arm of the Government; but before the army was half organized, or, as it might be said, only in a chrysalis state, the advance was ordered. The result is known to the world. The historian is left to record one of the most inglorious fizzles in American history. GREELEY began to be looked upon as a fraud then, but it was only recently that we up here began to see him in his true light, and to find out for ourselves how far he would go to push a point that would give a little temporary glory to his own name. But if HORACE GREELEY was ever so sincere he would not stand the ghost of a chance here against such a well-tried patriot as Gen. GRANT."

The frequent attempts of the Tribune to cast unmerited odium upon Conventions which have been held throughout the country to elect delegates to the National Republican Convention at Philadelphia, is fitly characterized by the writer of the following letter, a prominent Republican non-office-holder of Portland, Oregon:

"The New-York Tribune, a paper which was once relied on by Republicans for fairness, truth and correct political intelligence, has recently forsaken the Republican Party, and seems anxious, with the sacrifice of its political principles, to sacrifice also its reputation for candor and veracity. Of the Republican Convention of Oregon the Tribune, in its issue of April 1, said:

The Republican office-holders of Oregon came together in Portland, the other day, agreeing that serving one's country is sweet, pleasant and profitable, straightway 'indorsed' the Administration, and resolved themselves into a delegation to go to Philadelphia and vote for GRANT, that the pleasure might therein be continued for four years longer.

The truth is, that not a single Federal official was chosen as a delegate to the Oregon Convention, and but one such official had anything whatever to do with the Convention or its deliberations, and he held a proxy from a distant county. GRANT was "indorsed," as the phrase goes, because he is the unanimous choice of Oregon Republicans. Not a single Republican voice in the State has been raised against his renomination. And, though the State is close, yet GRANT will get its electoral vote, because he is the strongest candidate with Oregon Republicans that can be nominated. Of the six delegates sent to the Philadelphia Convention, not one is a Federal office-holder, or in any way connected, either in business or by relationship, with a Federal office-holder. Is the 'Liberal' movement so great a fraud that it can support itself only by falsehood? The Tribune is certainly doing a 'liberal' amount of lying for it."

The Republicans of Texas seem to have no sympathy whatever with the "soreheads." They have already begun to form in line for a vigorous campaign, and from what we can learn, everything looks favorable for a great success. The Tribune never had much of a circulation in the Lone Star State, but any little influence it could boast of is now so rapidly on the wane that it will not be likely to serve Mr. GREELEY much in his struggle for the Presidency. The following letter from a leading Republican of Austin gives a very interesting view of the situation:

"A subscription list to the NEW-YORK WEEKLY TIMES is being rapidly filled up, and will be soon sent you. * * * I am impressed with the necessity to the country of a Republican success this Fall; for four years of such prosperity as this party alone can give will be required to remove all the prejudices and bitter passions engendered by the late war. When that shall have been accomplished, then indeed will we be one people in heart, purpose and energy. Animated by that conviction, I feel that I owe it to the people of Texas, with whom I have been identified for so many years, to labor earnestly and unflinchingly for success. We have passed through periods of party experience in this State which, if properly considered, will surely make the Republican Party of Texas stronger day by day and year by year. I am of the further opinion that, under proper management, it will be clearly shown in the coming election that a very decided majority of our people are in support of the equity, justice and progress which essentially underlies true Republicanism. We can, by a proper course, carry this State. We have been defeated once, but what of that? As a lesson it will do good. We were to blame for it. Mismanagement was the cause. Yet I do not believe that any of the mismanagement was intentional. The people have an abiding faith in the purity and integrity of Gov. DAVIS, and their faith is well founded. The general sentiment of the Republicans of Texas is for the re-election of President GRANT, and I believe that our delegates to the Philadelphia Convention will be instructed to vote for his re-nomination."

WASHINGTON.

Close of the Tariff Debate in the House—The Pacific Steam-Ship Subsidy—The Clarke Contested Election.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Mr. DAWES closed the tariff debate today in what may safely be called the greatest speech of his life. It was not an extreme speech, although it was earnest. The first portion was devoted to a review of the financial condition of the country before and since the Administration has ministered the Government. In this way Mr. DAWES incidentally made the strongest vindication of the Administration by a plain, logical statement of facts that it has received or that it needs. Mr. DAWES was particularly successful in meeting the arguments of BURCHARD, FINKELNBURG and KERR. He showed that these gentlemen had all argued against each other. In the elaborate and exhaustive argument he then entered into in behalf of American labor and American industry, there was no dodging of any free-trade theories and no uncandid treatment of the views of his opponents. Mr. DAWES' general opinions are well known: he favors large reductions and seeks an equitable readjustment of the tariff rates. The manner in which the majority bill strikes at woolens is wherein his chief objection to it lies. The House will commence voting on the bill in Committee of the Whole next Tuesday.

THE PACIFIC STEAM-SHIP SUBSIDY.

The Senate spent the day in discussion of the Pacific Steam-ship subsidy, and it was voted by 29 to 19 to agree to the Committee's report, appropriating $1,000,000 annually for a semi-monthly line of steamers between California and Japan. The Australian subsidy will be taken up to-morrow, and if agreed to, it is thought that when the bill gets out of the Committee of the Whole before the Senate, both will be stricken out together, killing each other.

THE CLARKE CONTESTED ELECTION.

Gen. CLARKE has a dispatch that the Adjutant-General of Texas is on his way to Washington with important papers bearing on the contest for the seat in the House which he now holds. The Committee has not decided when to report, and an effort will be made to have their report delayed till the papers arrive. It is Gen. CLARK'S desire to have the whole matter sent back to the electors of the Third District. He claims that any other course would be unjust to him, and would not meet the wishes of the people of that district; and further, that GIDDINGS has not established any valid title to the seat against him.

Street-Cleaning Commission.

The Street-cleaning Commission held a meeting in the Controller's office yesterday. Present, the Mayor, (in the chair,) the Recorder, and the President of the Board of Health. The meeting was convened for the discussion of these questions:

Shall the contractor be paid to date and the contract abrogated?

Shall it be abrogated any way? If so, who shall go on with the cleaning of the streets, so imperatively necessary?

The Mayor, when the meeting had been opened, said he had the contract before him. He read:

The Commissioners, after hearing such complaint, if a majority of them decide that the contractors have unreasonably made default in the execution of this contract, shall declare this contract terminated, and a copy of this declaration shall be filed with the Controller, the contractors and their sureties. The contract shall then be at an end, unless the said sureties shall undertake the performance of this contract, and in that case they shall be entitled to receive the same compensation, and the bonds already given shall be deemed applicable.

The Mayor said that abrogating the contract for the purpose of allowing the sureties to take it up would be simply changing the name of the contractor, but not altering the administration; the same grievances would exist, the same irresponsibility, the same indifference to the public health so long as money could be made. He was decidedly in favor of rescinding the contract, but in the absence of the Controller he suggested an adjournment in order that the Commission might have the benefit of his (the Controller's) counsel in the matter.

An adjournment was agreed to.

GEN. THOMAS.

Grand Rally of the Soldiers at the Cooper Institute Last Night—Gen. Kilpatrick's Lecture for the Monument Fund.

In consequence of the change in the date of the meeting, the public, disappointed on a former occasion, did not rally at the Cooper Institute, last evening, in such numbers as the friends of the Grand Army of the Republic could have desired. At 8 o'clock the great hall was only half-full, but during the evening there were numerous accessions, until at the close four-fifths of the seats were occupied. The columns and frieze of the platform were gaily decorated with the national banner in various picturesque foldings. In the centre was a portrait of Gen. THOMAS, with the inscription underneath, "The Rock of Chicamauga." Above were the many battles in which the hero had shared the danger and the glory of the Union armies. Shortly after 8 o'clock, Gens. HOOKER, BURNSIDE, KILPATRICK, and WOODFORD, with the Vice-Presidents, made their appearance on the platform amid wild cheering from the audience and a salvo of music from the Governor's Island Band. When silence was restored, Gen. BURNSIDE came to the front and introduced Major-Gen. JOSEPH HOOKER as the Chairman of the evening. "Fighting JOE," who was welcomed with repeated cheers and waving of handkerchiefs from the ladies present, said that it was his maxim during the war that the army could not get on without the pulpit, and he believed that it could not now that it was out of the war. He would, therefore, introduce Rev. STEPHEN TYNG, Jr., who would deliver a prayer as the fittest opening of the evening's proceedings. After the conclusion of the reverend gentleman's beautiful prayer, Gen. HOOKER, who was received with applause, said:

MY COMRADES, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN: Without stopping to inquire the motive of this assembly, whether it concerns the living or the dead, or both, your enthusiastic salutation has awakened emotions in my bosom to which it is impossible to give voice. Your impulsive greeting lifts me almost to heaven. In acknowledgment I can only tender you my sincerest thanks and gratitude, and I am only sorry that I am not more deserving, and more worthy of your generous and kind feeling. [Applause.] In conclusion, I hope we will make a high resolve to-night that monuments shall be erected over our fallen comrades that shall pierce the skies. When I scan this audience I am forced to exclaim with the poet: "Peace hath its victories no less renowned than war." You all know the purpose of our meeting, and I am glad to see you testify your regard as much to those who were killed in the field as those whom Providence spared. [Applause.]

The Chairman then introduced Col. E. A. PERRY, a secretary of the meeting, who read the list of Vice-Presidents, comprising some of the best names in the service, and the following resolutions:

Whereas, While we are engaged in many noble movements in the interest of our country's defenders, and heartily sympathise with the many appeals put forth on the basis of pledges long since made, we specially feel the importance of the objects of this meeting; therefore be it

Resolved, That we consecrate this meeting, and pledge our efforts, with the assistance of our fellow-citizens, to the erection of a monument commemorative of the valor and Christian virtues of Major-Gen. GEO. H. THOMAS; and also a monument to tell future generations of the cause which had led, our 4,000 comrades who sleep in Cypress Hills Cemetery, to hallow the altar of our country with their blood.

The following letter was read, and was received with immense applause:

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 22, 1872.

DEAR SIR: I regret that it will be impossible for me to accept your invitation to be present at the Grand Soldiers' Meeting at Cooper Institute on the 26th inst.

The object to raise funds for the erection of a monument to that great and patriotic soldier, Major-Gen. GEORGE H. THOMAS and "four thousand Union dead who sleep in Cypress Hill Cemetery," is one which commends itself to every lover of his country.

Though I cannot be with you at your meeting, please receive the inclosed check as a very slight expression of my appreciation of its objects. Very truly, your obedient servant, U. S. GRANT.

EDWARD A. PERRY, Secretary, &c.

Gen. WOODFORD being introduced, made a speech, of which this is an abstract:

MY COMRADES: You bid me speak to-night in memory of our dead, leader and soldiers alike. In memory of the great General who is at rest by the banks of the Hudson, and of the four thousand who sleep across yonder beautiful arm of the sea, upon the silent slopes of the Cypress Hills. Their marches ended, their tents forever folded, their arms forever grounded in serried lines they lie and wait the reveille of the resurrection morn. It is sad that so many years have passed, and left this duty still unperformed. It is pleasant to believe that the sense of obligation, once awakened, will assure the success of this appeal. But as we thus gladly unite in honoring the dead General, we would with equal gift and with as earnest plea for aid ask you to help us rear an enduring bronze to mark the spot where the private soldiers of New-York are buried. Although two years have come and gone, it seems but yesterday that some whom I greet upon this platform to-night stood in the early April days among the leafless trees at Oakwood Cemetery. Around us were the dead. Below was the City of Troy, its furnaces idle, its factories silent, as for an hour all turned from labor to join in common tribute of respect and love to the departed soldier. And beyond ran the Hudson, hastening to the sea. The noblest in name and highest in station stood waiting there, as with measured tread and slow, strong men bore through the opened ranks all that remained of the great commander, and laid him at rest. The cold winds, sighing among the bare branches; the hurrying clouds, that for the most part hid the sun-light; the bleak brown earth; the snow-drifts still lingering along the sides of the distant hills; the closed coffin; the stern, silent faces of comrade and friend; all spoke of death, of the emptiness of human glory, of the hollowness of human achievement and fame. With mournful echoes the doors of the vault clashed to; when for an instant the hurrying clouds parted with sudden rift, and the warm sunlight streamed down, gilding the shut tomb, lighting the city below into brightness and life, and kindling the broad Hudson into silvery beauty.

All the gloom and sadness of the tomb had passed away. He had but gone to join his comrades gone before. Some had died on the picket line: some had been wasted in the hospital; some had fallen amid the strange, stern joy of battle; some had welcomed death as glad release from the horrors of the prison pen. But all rested from their labors, and the works of the great army of the Union do follow them. Because they faithfully lived and loyally fought and nobly died, our land remains, our flag still floats, and government of the people, for the people and by the people, hath not perished from the earth. Let us do honor to the memory of our fellow-comrades, the private soldiers. Their separate names live upon no historic page, but they made history. But some have made this suggestion, as we have asked their help in this pious duty: Why spend our money to build monuments to the dead, when so many wounded and disabled living soldiers demand our aid and care?

Thus spake some in the olden time, when the loving woman broke her box of precious ointment, poured it on the Master's head and feet, that head so soon to be crowned with thorns, those feet that were so soon to walk in the shadows of Gethsemane and climb Calvary, and then kissed them and wiped them with her hair. "Might not this ointment have been sold for more than three hundred pence and given to the poor?" And the Master, whose heart bore all humanity in its love, simply answered: "Let her alone. Against the day of my burying hath she done this." We ask this monument. We ask more. Flowers and suitable memorials for our dead. Work for our able-bodied. Bread and homes for our maimed and disabled. In this the nation has done well. The Soldiers' Homes in New-England and Ohio are worthy both of the nation and the soldier. But New-York has her own duty. Our volunteer regiments were raised by States, and our volunteer officers commissioned by the Governors of States. From your own home these brave men went, and into the fight they bore, not only the Stars and Stripes of the Union, but the Excelsior flag of our own Empire State. May we seek with humility to continue the work they did so well. And while with pious hand we build memorials above their ashes, wherever they lie, in the quiet country graveyards and amid the crowded cemeteries of cities, let us build with ourselves as with living stones, with patriotic purposes and honest efforts, the best monument that we can raise to our heroic dead—the monument of a nation, truly free, wisely ruled, and power kept as our fathers consecrated it, sacred to the rights of man.

At the conclusion of Gen. WOODFORD'S eloquent address there was a perfect storm of applause, which lasted for several minutes. When quiet was restored the Memoriam Glee Society sang "Mark the Dear Spot," and were warmly applauded. The Chairman then introduced Gen. KILPATRICK, who gave an abstract of his well-known and charming lecture, "Sherman's March to the Sea," with immense applause. His handsome allusions to Gen. GRANT and his glowing descriptions of the Look Out Mountain battle fairly brought down the house. He gave some other highly picturesque descriptions of battle scenes, but his experiences with the "bummers" seemed to tickle his auditors more than the grand and flowing eloquence with which he sketched SHERMAN'S wonderful flanking combinations. He retired amid unbounded applause, and his conclusion was the signal for the departure of the crowd who would not wait to hear the band play the national airs.

The Burroughs Murder Trial at Paterson, N. J.

The cross-examination of the prisoner, LIBBIE GARRABRANT, continued all day yesterday, but it failed to elicit anything new, or to shake the testimony of the witness as given on her direct examination the previous day. The questioning related mainly to the details of the incidents connected with the stay of the man BOGERT in the house, and the time that BURROUGHS was sick. The witness testified that BURROUGHS was taken with severe pains and vomited, the day that she bought the poison and gave it to BOGERT. He seemed to recover a little the next day, but became worse afterward. It was a day or two after the poison was bought that BOGERT told her what he had done with it. The case will be given to the jury to-night, if possible.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Jacksonville, Ill., has had the same Treasurer for thirty-nine years.

Hon. SAMUEL W. MOULTON says he is not a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor of Illinois.

An Iowa Republican paper nominates the two WILSONS for President and Vice-President, JAMES F. heading the ticket.

The re-election of Hon. JEROME B. CHAFFEE as Congressional delegate from Colorado is regarded as almost certain in that Territory.

A meeting of temperance men of Connecticut is to be held in New-Haven today, to consult as to the legislation required to promote the cause.

The Tennessee Democratic State Central Committee has formally refused to postpone the State Convention to please Gen. CHEATHAM or anybody else.

A lager-beer saloon in Milwaukee, Wis., displays prominently in a frame the pen with which the Governor of the State once vetoed a Temperance bill.

Gen. CHARLES C. WOLCUTT is named for Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee of Ohio, in place of Hon. RICHARD D. HARRISON, deceased.

North Carolina Republican journals say that there is no doubt of there nomination of Hon. CHAS R. THOMAS for Congress by the Republicans of the Second District of that State.

It is claimed in Wisconsin that the Cities of Janesville, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Portage City, Watertown and Green Bay have the same provisions in their charters, pertaining to the sale of intoxicating drinks, as the charter of Milwaukee, and that the new Temperance bill, therefore, cannot affect them.

The Greenville (Tenn.) Sentinel insists upon ANDREW JOHNSON as a candidate for Congress, and says that "a single blast from his horn" would call up from the valleys, from the hills and from the mountain gorges a mighty host, such as has not been seen since the olden time.

A briefless lawyer in New-Orleans, whose main support is derived from the proceeds of the labor of his wife as a teacher in the public schools, has made trouble in his family by offering his services to the "tax-ridden public" to prevent the imposition of school and other taxes.

A Montreal paper notes the number of new mill enterprises started in Fall River, Mass., and asks: "How many have been started, not at a particular spot, but in the Province of Quebec, during the same period? We believe not one, and yet we possess the finest water-power in the world, cheap labor and boundless natural resources. But the States are being 'ruined by protection.'"

Gens. BARNUM, KILPATRICK and BARTLETT sent their Anti-Grant letter to Capt. HENRY A. CASTLE, a Minnesota soldier, and received a reply to the effect that he is opposed to the banding together of ex-soldiers for political purposes, and that his first choice for President is Gen. GRANT. He says, moreover, that he is joined in this position by nine-tenths of the Republicans of Minnesota, including ninety-nine out of every one hundred ex-soldiers in the State.

Skimming and Separating Coffee in Bond.

The following decision of the Secretary of the Treasury, in reference to the practice of importers of "skimming" or separating the sound from the unsound coffee in bond, has been received from Washington:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, April 27, 1872.

Collector of Customs, New-York:

SIR: Respectfully referring to your letter of the 22d inst., in relation to the practice of skimming and separating coffee in bond, I would state that, from the examinations made at the ports of Baltimore and New-York, I am satisfied that the practice as at present conducted cannot result in any fraud upon the revenue. The skimming or separating of the sound coffee from the unsound is not permitted until the weights are ascertained by the proper officers, and an inspection has been made by the Appraiser's officers for damage. You may, therefore, continue, until otherwise instructed, to allow the practice referred to.

It has been suggested that the appraisement for damages should be deferred until after the skimming has been done, and that then the appraisers examine only the damaged portion in each case. This, I apprehend, would involve a reweighing of the goods, after the examination by the appraisers, and after the skimming, to ascertain the actual weight of the damaged portion, as the same quantity of damaged coffee cannot be put into a bag as if it were sound coffee. I think, at all events, the stenciling should be performed only upon the damaged portion. I am, very respectfully,

WM. A. RICHARDSON,
Acting Secretary.

Retirement of Isaac England as School Commissioner.

ENGLAND, School Commissioner, the reason assigned by that gentleman for resigning being that he is about to remove to another State. Hon. S. H. B. VANCE has been asked by the Mayor to accept the vacancy. Mr. VANCE was a Commissioner of Education in prior years.

Heretofore there has been no edition of this acknowledged head of American romancists suitable for general popular circulation, and hence the new issue of these famous novels will be welcomed by the generation of readers that have sprung up since Cooper departed from us. As time progresses, the character, genius and value of the Cooper romances become more widely recognized; he is now accepted as the great classic of our American literature, and his books as the prose epics of our early history.

THE MYSTERY OF PAIN.

"This book is addressed to the sorrowful. It may be there are some in whose lives pleasure so far overbalances pain that the presence of the latter has never been felt by them as a mystery. To those I do not address myself; but there is another and, I think, a far more numerous class, to whom their own or others' pain is a daily burden, upon whose hearts it weighs with an intolerable anguish. I seek to speak to these, not as a teacher, but as a fellow."

"The book which I now offer to my professional brethren contains the substance of the lectures which I have delivered, during the past twelve years, at the College of Physicians and Surgeons of this City. It does not claim to be a complete compendium of all that is known on the subjects of which it treats; for so much has been learned in bone-pathology since Stanley's work was published, now nearly a quarter of a century ago, that I have not had the leisure, and certainly not the ability, to write such a treatise."—Extract from Preface.

FIRST LESSONS IN OUR COUNTRY'S HISTORY,

bringing out its salient points, and aiming to combine simplicity with sense. By WM. SWINTON, A. M., Professor of History in the University of California, author of "Condensed History of the United States," &c. 1 vol. Square. Fully illustrated. Price 80 cents. By mail to teachers for examination on receipt of 50 cents.

This is the most dainty and attractive school book ever issued from the Press. The illustrations are by the most famous artists and engravers in the United States. The chief features that recommend it are:

1. Its plain yet picturesque style, and the skill with which "simplicity and sense" are combined in the treatment.
2. The care in the historic perspective, by which only the "salient points" are brought out, and these with such fullness as to produce distinct and lasting impressions.
3. The convenient arrangement of easy yet suggestive questions in the margin, giving plain and ready references to both teacher and pupil.
4. The clustering of events round the great central facts of our history, thus aiding the memory by the power of association.
5. The method of plain review lessons to reiterate the leading events and secure their remembrance.
6. The beauty of mechanical execution, as regards print, paper and illustrations.

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

At the Exchange yesterday, Friday, May 3, sales were made and other business transacted as follows: JAMES M. MILLER, by order of the Supreme Court in foreclosure, under the direction of JOHN V. W. DOTY, Esq., Referee, disposed of twelve lots, with twelve gore lots in the rear, together forming a plot in size 300 by 103.5 by 256.10 by 119.11 by 82.5, situate on the south side of One Hundred and Twenty-eighth-stree, 225 feet east of Tenth-avenue, for $25,690 in the aggregate. The lots were sold separately, as reported in detail below, and all purchased by F. A. RAY. The same auctioneer also sold at public auction, a two-story and basement frame house and lot located on the north side of Eighty-fourth-street, 175 feet west of Eleventh-avenue, for $6,925, which was purchased by STEPHEN LUCAS. JOSEPH MCGUIRE, under a Supreme Court foreclosure order, JULIUS J. LYONS, Esq., Referee, sold a three-story brown-stone house and lot located on the north side of East Fiftieth-street, between Second and Third avenues, for $12,400 over and above a mortgage amounting, with interest, to $4,140, making the total price realized $16,540. The purchaser of the property was GARRETT NAGLE. A. J. BLEECKER, SON & CO., at an executors' sale by order of the executor's of JOSEPH FATMAN, deceased, offered at auction the late residence of the deceased, located at Bath, Long Island, embracing a large and desirable house, together with three and a half acres of cultivated grounds, and having an extended water front on New-Utrecht Bay. Only a portion of the property was sold, however, viz.: the house and one and a half acres of land, which was bought by CORNELL & CO., No. 109 Pearl-street, for $7,350. Nothing further worthy of note occurred, and the market generally closes quiet. For today no real estate sales are announced.

Next week, as heretofore noted, the season for suburban auctions will begin, and the attention of investors is particularly called to the two following important sales, proposed for Monday next, May 6:

At Richmond Hill, Long Island, at a trustee's sale, on the grounds, at 12½ P. M., JERE. JOHNSON, Jr., will offer at auction, under the direction of Messrs. MILLER, STOUTENBURGH & PECKHAM, attorneys, 500 handsomely-located lots, belonging to the Curtis estate, respectively situated on streets and avenues already opened and improved. The sale is announced as positive and peremptory, with the single reservation that should the weather prove stormy an adjournment will be taken to the next fair day. The lots will be disposed of on liberal terms, and an opportunity is here presented for the purchase of a choice location for a future home at a reasonable rate. Richmond Hill is a suburb of Williamsburg, only seven miles distant, easy of access by rail to this City, and as an investment with an eye to future profit the purchase of lots in this vicinity will repay the investor. In regard to the lots to be sold they are all that is represented. Free tickets for the sale and descriptive maps of the property can be obtained of the auctioneer at his office, No. 25 Nassau-street. The special train for the auction will leave the foot of South Eighth-street, Williamsburg, at 11¼ o'clock.

The other important sale to take place on Monday is that in charge of A. D. MELLICK, Jr., & BRO., who, by order of Mr. S. J. AHERN, at Roselle, N. J., at public auction on the premises, at 12 M., will dispose of 132 choice lots, in size each 50 by 200, situated on Walnut-street, Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh avenues. For a residence, Roselle is one of the most desirable places in New-Jersey, and the lots both in the town and in the vicinity, are being rapidly bought up, for they are daily appreciating in value. On the line of the Central Railroad, Roselle is distant from New-York forty-three minutes, and from the City of Elizabeth only one and a half miles. The railway station is located near the property to be sold, and the facilities for reaching it will soon be largely increased, as it is the intention to run trains more frequently: while the construction of a horse-railroad is contemplated from Roselle to Linden, which will greatly enhance the value of the lots. From the many advantages offered the auction should be attended with success. An excursion train will leave the Liberty-street Ferry at 11 o'clock Monday, for which tickets can be procured of Messrs. MELLICK & BRO., No. 6 Pine-street, and of Mr. AHERN, No. 88 Wall-street, or at his residence, Madison-avenue and Julia-street, Elizabeth. Maps of property and additional particulars concerning terms of sale, &c., will also be furnished by the same parties.

For full details in regard to auction sales to occur during the week, several of which are of interest, reference is directed to our list published in this column on Monday. At private sale the following recent transactions are reported duly effected by the brokers named:

By V. K. STEVENSON & SON, No. 11 Pine-street, brown-stone house and lot, (22.6 by 55 by 100,) No. 48 West Forty-seventh-street, south side, between Fifth and Sixth avenues; sold for S. W. TAYLOR, Esq., for $44,000.

ALBANY.

Passage of the Amendments to the Charter by the Senate.

Action on Miller's Case Postponed—The Apportionment Bill—The Prison Commission Bill Killed—The Impeachment Cases—How the Cincinnati Nominations Are Regarded.

From Our Own Correspondent.

ALBANY, Friday, May 3, 1872.

The feature of today's proceedings in the Legislature is the passage of the charter for New-York through the Senate, or rather the amendments to the charter of 1870, which were introduced last evening by Senator PALMER. It was taken up in the Senate at the opening of the session this morning, and read through by sections, amended, and passed at one sitting. The vote on its passage was unanimous, and the bill will go to the Assembly immediately, where it will probably encounter some opposition in certain provisions, but will most likely pass substantially as it left the Senate. It legislates Mayor HALL out of office, together with all the rest of the City officials, with the exception of the Boards of Aldermen and Assistant Aldermen, the Controller, and the Commissioner of Public Works. The following are among the provisions of the bill:

There shall be three Aldermen elected in each Senate District, and one Assistant Alderman in each Assembly district, the election to take place on the last Friday in this month, and to take office at the expiration of the terms of office of the present Aldermen and Assistant Aldermen. Their salary is to be $2,000 per annum each. The Mayor shall be elected on the same day, and enter in office on the 1st day of July; his salary is to be $10,000. The Department of Public Works is to have charge of all public works, and the Health Department, which is to consist of the Police Commissioners and the Health Officer, is to control the cleaning of the streets, with the appointment of the Inspector of Streets vested in the Mayor. A Board of Education is to be provided by the Committee of Seventy. All officers appointed by the Mayor to hold office during the same term as the term of the Mayor. It is understood that the present Controller and Commissioner of Public Works hold over. With these exceptions, all heads of Departments go out of office on the 15th day of July. The heads of departments are to receive a salary of $7,500.

MILLER'S CASE.

The third reading of bills staved off action on the resolution to remove Superintendent MILLER, which was made the special order in the Assembly for this morning. Mr. ALVORD moved that third readings be suspended for the purpose of taking up the special order, but the motion was lost—yeas, 51; nays, 56. The following is the vote, which cannot be regarded, however, as a test vote on the passage of the resolution, but is strongly indicative of the probable result:

YEAS—Messrs Alvord, D. L. Babcock, I. H. Babcock, Badeau, Baltz, Beckwith, I. D. Brown, Burns, Crandall, Dykeman, Flammer, Fort, Fowler, Green, Greenhalgh, Gregory, Haight, Hart, Houghton, Husted, Judd, Kennedy, Kingsland, Knapp, Lewis, Lincoln, Lippitt, Lott, Loughran, Mackay, Moore, Moulton, Murdock, Niles, Preston, Rice, Rose, Sage, Simson, Smiley, Smyth, Sniper, Snyder, Speaker, Springsted, Strahan, Swain, Tobey, A. L. Van Dusen, West, Whitbeck—51.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbott, Aitken, Alberger, Bemus, Bennett, Blair, E. E. Brown, Buckley, Buell, Burritt, Campbell, Carroll, Chamberlain, Chambers, Cook, Couchman, Dunphy, Enos, Fields, Foley, Ford, Geib, Goss, Griffin, A. L. Hayes, A. Hill, D. B. Hill, Holdridge, Hollister, Hungerford, Hyatt, Jacobs, Kilian, G. D. Lord, G. P. Lord, Lynde, Marcy, Moseley, Mosher, Oakley, Paige, Pell, Prince, Roche, M. M. Tompkins, Tucker, Twombly, W. J. Van Dusen, Vedder, Wells, Whitaker, Wiley, Woodward, Woolsey, Wyman, Yeomans—56.

MILLER and his tools have moved heaven and earth to prevent his removal, and they are boasting that they will succeed. Certain insurance companies in New-York which have benefited by MILLER'S partiality, have subscribed liberally to keep him in power in order that they may get more favors in future. Those companies that refused to contribute to the corruption fund owe it to themselves and the public to publish their names, so that the people may know what companies are hereafter to be ranked in the list of MILLER'S pets.

THE APPORTIONMENT BILL.

The Apportionment bill, defining the boundaries of Congressional districts, came up in the Assembly this morning, and was amended by transferring the County of Schoharie back to the Albany District, as it was before, thus leaving all the districts outside of New-York and Brooklyn the same as they have been for the last ten years. As amended the bill passed, most of the Democrats voting against it. A good deal of fault is found with the bill by members of both parties, but it would be an endless job to undertake to change the Congressional districts throughout the State, and, when finished, it would probably be quite as unsatisfactory as the present bill.

Notice to Mariners.

SAGUA LA GRANDE.

On the 1st of June next a light-house will be established on headland of the Rancheira, on the weather side of the Boca de Sagua, raised thirty-four metres above the level of the sea, hoisted on a wooden post.

The light will be a fixed white reflector, and can be seen, in ordinary weather, eight and a half miles. Its position will be in lat. 23 05 02 N. of San Fernando, lon. 73 40 34¼ W. of San Fernando. Elevation above the sea, at low water, 17.24 metres; above the land, 14.19 metres.

The house of the keeper is immediately alongside of the light-house, and painted red.

This light is to mark an entrance to the port of Sagua for vessels which draw less than nine feet (Spanish) of water; as also a harbor in bad weather for all craft seeking the Boca de Marillanes, which is the principal entrance to the port.

In changing the course so as to make the Boca de Sagua, which has a width between points of one-sixth of a mile at its entrance, the course must be steered within an angle of 47 deg. east, the light bearing west, in order to guard against the sunken rocks outside.
